Nautilus Nears New York City

Hero's Welcome Awaits A-Sub

NEW YORK (AP)—The atomic submarine Nautilus sped toward the big town Sunday, headed for a hero's welcome as the first craft to cross under the Arctic ice pact at the North Pole.

Before the Nautilus left Portland, England, last Monday its skipper, Cmdr. William Anderson, told newsmen: "We'll make a fast run... sealed with this good Portland air, and we will arrive at New York with this same Portland air after it has been processed and conditioned."

A sister atomic sub, the Skate, holds the East-to-West undersea record of seven days and five hours, a 2,975-mile run from Portland to Block Island, off New London, completed last March 29.

The Nautilus left Portland at 8 a.m., EST. Should it arrive at 8 a.m., EST, Monday, it will have completed the trip in 168 hours. The Skate's record adds up to 173 hours.

New York was all set for a rip-roaring, three-day celebration for the 115 officers and men of the Nautilus. Water-sporting fireboats, destroyer escorts, Coast Guard cutters, boat whistles, helicopters

Navy Abandons Hope Of Saving Grounded Ship

TOKYO (UPI)—The U. S. Navy reported Sunday that it has given up hope of saving the minesweeper U.S.S. Prestige which went aground on a reef Saturday in the dangerous whirlpools of the Naruto Straits.

A Navy spokesman said there were gaging holes in the hull of the vessel and that latest reports said "water pouring in." The abandonment order, he said, came shortly after midnight.

The U. S. Navy headquarters in Yokosuka had not received word of the 68 officers and men aboard the stricken vessel which hit the reef near the mouth of Japan's Inland Sea.

A spokesman of the Japanese coast guard said however, that their office had received word that 52 men aboard the vessel had been transferred to other U.S. vessels at the scene.

Jordan Seeks Reconciliation With Nasser

CAIRO (AP) — King Hussein's Jordan is seeking a reconciliation with President Nasser, Arab sources said here Sunday. They said Hussein seeks restoration of diplomatic relations with the United Arab Republic and a return to close cooperation in the Nasser-led Arab League.

The same sources said Lebanon also was seeking to smooth over with U.A.R. President Nasser and the Arab League relations riled by the rebellion there.

The informants said Hussein's Premier Samir Rifai, put the first plea to Nasser through Saudi Arabia's Crown Prince Feisal when the latter conferred with Nasser here recently. Jordan broke relations with Cairo following the July 14 Iraqi coup which overthrew and killed Hussein's cousin, King Faisal.

Nasser was reported to have answered that it was Jordan, not the U.A.R., which broke off relations, therefore the formal initiative must come from Amman.

Rifai told a news conference in Amman Saturday that Jordan was willing to undertake a rapprochement but the initiative should come from Nasser.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Pan American World Airways completed the nation's first commercial jet operation Sunday with the arrival at Idlewild International Airport of a sleek 575-mile-per-hour swept-wing jet carrying a cargo of dungarees and dolls from Puerto Rico.

A crew of five and 33 Pan American and Boeing Aviation Company officials were aboard the four-jet civilian counterpart of the Air Force's KC135 tanker plane when it whistled down from a clear blue sky to a smooth landing at 9:25 a. m. e.d.t., 3 hours and 24 minutes after leaving San Juan.

All of the passengers were guests. The cargo was the only payload. Pan American will be limited to cargo flights for at least 30 days of "shakedown" operations.

Compromise Foreign Aid Bill Passed

Two Measures Die With Adjournment At 4:11 A.M. Sunday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Members of the 85th Congress scattered for home Sunday bearing the scars of legislative struggles with national, international and space age crises.

Barring some great new emergency, the Senate and House will not meet again until Jan. 7, 1959, when they will convene as the 86th Congress, first session.

That date was set before the House adjourned at 2 a. m. EDT. The Senate stretched its closing session out to more than 18 hours, finally quitting at 4:11 a. m.

Without the resolution fixing the Jan. 7 date, the next Congress would have been required by the Constitution to convene on a post-New Year Saturday, Jan. 3.

A good part of Saturday night's windup was devoted to a battle over President Eisenhower's foreign aid program. It ended with House and Senate passage of a compromise $3,298,092,500 appropriation for the 12 months ending next June 30.

Eisenhower's original mutual aid request was for $3,950,000,000. The Senate voted $3,518,092,500, but the House held out for $3,078,092,500. The final, in-between figure was reached at a Senate-House conference lasting nearly five hours.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.), led an unsuccessful fight to trim the bill in the Senate. In the House Rep. John Bell Williams (D-Miss.) denounced the foreign aid program as an international WPA.

Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa) said, "The cold-hearted fact is the managers on the part of the House gave in to the extent of 220 million dollars."

On the other hand, Rep. Richard B. Wigglesworth (R-Mass.), who has decided not to seek re-election this fall, told the House that the compromise figure was inadequate.

"In my opinion we're taking chances we ought not to take under existing world conditions," Wigglesworth said.

Two bills died when the Senate adjourned. One of these was a compromise measure designed to modify the impact of a Supreme Court decision which reversed the conviction of a confessed rapist because of police delay in arraignment. (Cont. on Page 3, Col. 7)

Tax Collections By States Reach New Record High

WASHINGTON (UPI) — State governments collected a record $14,905,000,000 in tax revenues in the fiscal year ended June 30, but the sharp rise of recent years slackened, the government reported Sunday.

The Census Bureau said the 1958 total was an increase of 374 million dollars, 2.6 per cent, over the 1957 figure. But it noted that this was the smallest percentage hike in recent years.

The 1957-58 rate of increase in tax collections was only slightly more than the percentage growth in population, the bureau added, and total levies per capita actually dropped in one-third of the 48 states.

California led the nation with $1,647,000,000 in state taxes, followed by New York with $1,501,000,000.

First American Jetliner Lands At Idlewild Airport

NEW YORK (UPI)—Pan American's flight completed an operation that began at Miami, Fla., Saturday, when the light blue and cream-colored Boeing 707 jet clipper took off with a cargo of flowers, pastries and other U. S. products for San Juan. That trip took 2 hours and 21 minutes.

Pan American hopes to begin transatlantic commercial passenger service around Nov. 1, with seven-hour service between New York and Paris. American Airlines will make the nation's first domestic jet passenger flights around Jan. 1, between New York and Los Angeles.

A four-engine British de Havilland Comet jet landed at Idlewild Aug. 10 and a twin-engine French Caravelle jet visited the airport about a year ago. Neither has started commercial operations out of the airport, however.

Faubus Aides Draft Social Security Bill To Close School If Negroes Returned

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus' office Sunday worked on legislation to close Central High School completely if Negro students are returned to its classrooms, either by court edict or by federal force.

It was learned such a bill definitely will be submitted to the 126-man Arkansas State Legislature later in the week. Faubus Saturday summoned the legislators into emergency session on Tuesday at 11 a. m. (CST).

The governor was in a weekend round of conferences with key state and legislative aides. Among those being contacted were members of the potent Pulaski County delegation, which includes 11 senators and representatives from Little Rock.

Support of any bill the governor offers the Legislature seemed assured. Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett predicted to a newsmen: "Come Sept. 2 there will be no troops around the school and the seven Negroes will not be inside."

Faubus hopes special legislation will counter any last-minute Supreme Court mandate for the return of seven Negro pupils to Central High when it reopens Sept. 2. A year ago, when Negroes first entered, white rioting occurred and President Eisenhower sent federal troops into the Southern capital.

Faubus claims he repeatedly has been tipped off that the mood of local segregationists is even more violent this year than it was last. He said he called the Legislature "to combat by legal means the forcible integration of the Little Rock high schools and to avoid the almost certain disorders that would ensue."

Re-entry of seven Negroes into Central currently is stymied by a 30-day integration stay granted last week by the 8th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis. The National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People has asked U. S. Supreme Court Justice Charles E. Whittaker to supercede—that is, to upset—the stay. A decision is not expected before next Thursday, at the earliest.

Plane Crash Fatal To Baltimore Woman

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Miss Ruth Crawford, 45, Baltimore, Md., one of nine persons injured in an airplane crash Wednesday, died Sunday in a hospital here.

Miss Crawford, a physical education instructor at Notre Dame Academy in Baltimore, suffered a severe scalp laceration, multiple cuts and bruises, and shock.

The twin-engine Alaska Coastal Airlines amphibian, carrying eight passengers and a pilot, went down in Lynn Canal, 70 miles north of here, on an 85-mile flight from Juneau to Haines.

Miss Crawford's mother, Mrs. Estelle Mehner, 75, also of Baltimore, was injured critically in the crash but was reported recovering at St. Ann's Hospital.

The others aboard, including Mrs. Mildred Ruth, 56, also of Baltimore, were less seriously injured. All were reported in good condition at the hospital Sunday.

The driver, James Gibbons, 20, of East Fairhaven, and two front seat passengers escaped but were hospitalized.

Big Guns Shell Islands; Naval Fight Reported

TAIPEI, Formosa, Monday (AP)—Red China's guns battered the Quemoy and nearby Tan islands anew Monday. The heavy shooting followed two night bombardments attended by the first Red Chinese aerial attacks on the Nationalist islands.

The Defense Ministry announced the Reds started shelling Quemoy at 7:35 a. m. and at 8 a. m. extended the attack to Little Quemoy and the Tan group. It described the bombardment as all-out.

The Communist air force, now equipped with Soviet MIG17 fighters, made its first aerial strike against the island garrisons during a bombardment of nearly two hours Sunday evening.

The Defense Ministry said the Reds followed this up with a strafing raid by eight planes and a 10-minute artillery bombardment that started at 12:50 a. m. Monday.

These attacks, coupled with word of a naval clash southwest of the Red fortress island of Amoy set off rumors of an imminent Communist attempt to seize the Nationalist-held Tan islands. The Defense Ministry said it had no such reports.

The Tan islands are 2½ miles south of Amoy. They curb shipping into the port of Amoy, but otherwise are unimportant. Their total area is about 143 acres. It has been predicted in Taipei the Reds might attempt to take such unimportant islands for propaganda purposes.

(Radio Peiping said Red Chinese artillery hit a Nationalist troopship en route to Quemoy Sunday afternoon. The broadcast said the ship was stranded in Liolo Bay, near the Fukien coast. It did not mention casualties. A Peiping broadcast Saturday said a record bombardment of Quemoy on that day was launched because Nationalist troop transports were sighted carrying a large number of reinforcements to Quemoy. Another Red version said that the troopships were headed toward Amoy.)

Quemoy and Little Quemoy, from five to 10 miles east of Amoy, were pounded by a record Red artillery barrage Saturday. The nationalists said 41,000 shells fell on the islands in a fierce artillery duel. They said the bombardment killed or wounded 200 Nationalist military personnel. Eleven civilians were killed and 18 wounded. There were no casualties among the members of the U.S. Military Assistance Advisory Group on the island.

When the Social Security trust funds buy U. S. bonds there is no inflationary effect. In contrast, bank purchases of bonds often are inflationary. This is so because the value of the bond is added to the reserve of the banks, increasing their ability to extend credit—in effect creating new money.

The bill would raise retirement benefits about 7 per cent next February and boost payroll taxes on workers and employers from 2½ to 2½ per cent in January. It also would raise the taxable wage base from the first $4,200 of wages of year to $4,800 starting next year.

Another section would increase by 197 million dollars the annual federal contribution to state-operated public assistance programs. Congress voted this over strong administration objections.

'Moon' Radio Voice Heard Only Briefly

Failure Mystifies Scientists; Blastoff Apparently Normal

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The Army splendidly launched a Jupiter-C rocket to a possible altitude of 200 miles or more early Sunday but failed to put its Explorer V satellite into orbit.

The satellite's radio voice was heard only briefly during the upward flight by a receiving station at Ft. Monmouth, N. J. Then there was only silence.

Hours after the apparently normal blastoff at 1:17 a. m. EST, teams of weary scientists were still studying their test data, trying to determine what went wrong.

They had counted particularly on the 80-inch tubular satellite to help analyze the intense high-altitude radiation that has riddled earlier satellites and saturated their instruments.

All Stages Fired Properly

Previously launched earth moons have demonstrated already that strong shielding must be provided to prevent a human space traveler from quick radiation death.

Six hours after the launching the Defense Department in Washington said definitely that Explorer V did not achieve an orbit around the earth.

A department spokesman said there was every indication, however, that all four stages of the 70-foot launching rocket had fired properly.

That was the way it looked from the launching site, all during the hours-long preliminary countdown and through the brilliantly sure and steady liftoff and climb toward the stars.

50 Gallons Of Fuel A Second

Spurring a yellow flame 100 feet long, the rocket rose vertically for several seconds, gulping its tons of propellant at the rate of 50 gallons a second.

Several seconds after the launching, when it had attained aerodynamic stability, the rocket started tilting gradually into its curved ballistic path towards the north-east.

Onlookers at the missile test center and on the miles of beaches facing the launch area saw the vehicle climb on a tall or fire through the star-spinkled sky for a full 2½ minutes.

Soviet U-Boat Crash Program Menaces West

LONDON (UPI) — Russia is building up powerful submarine striking forces at the rate of about 100 new vessels a year in a massive challenge to Western naval supremacy in the Mediterranean and the Far East, intelligence sources said Sunday.

The sources said these Soviet undersea forces may soon pose a major threat to the U. S. 6th and 7th Fleets. They say that although the United States apparently is alone in the nuclear submarine field, the sheer weight of numbers favors Russia.

The Soviet Union, according to the best Western estimates, already has a force of about 500 submarines. This is more than Nazi Germany ever had at the peak of its World War II U-boat campaign and about nine times the size of the U-boat force with which Hitler started the war.

Western intelligence estimates indicate the Russians now are rushing a submarine construction program at the rate of about 100 a year. The ultimate Soviet goal may be 1,000 or even 1,200 submarines, Western experts believe.

The Russians themselves gave the West a pointed warning last week of the submarine menace they are building up.

A task force of four Russian subs and a mother ship sailed down the English Channel Wednesday right through the British radar tracking screens.

The subs belonged to the latest "W" class—1,500-ton craft armed with twin three-inch guns and anti-aircraft guns. They have a range of up to 20,000 miles.

The fact that the subs moved at a leisurely pace down the channel on the surface showed that Russia wanted the West to know they were on the move.

Eisenhower's original mutual aid request was for $3,950,000,000. The Senate voted $3,518,092,500, but the House held out for $3,078,092,500. The final, in-between figure was reached at a Senate-House conference lasting nearly five hours.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) led an unsuccessful fight to trim the bill in the Senate. In the House Rep. John Bell Williams (D-Miss.) denounced the foreign aid program as an international WPA.

Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa) said, "The cold-hearted fact is the managers on the part of the House gave in to the extent of 220 million dollars."

On the other hand, Rep. Richard B. Wigglesworth (R-Mass.), who has decided not to seek re-election this fall, told the House that the compromise figure was inadequate.

"In my opinion we're taking chances we ought not to take under existing world conditions," Wigglesworth said.

Two bills died when the Senate adjourned. One of these was a compromise measure designed to modify the impact of a Supreme Court decision which reversed the conviction of a confessed rapist because of police delay in arraignment. (Cont. on Page 3, Col. 7)

Tax Collections By States Reach New Record High

WASHINGTON (UPI) — State governments collected a record $14,905,000,000 in tax revenues in the fiscal year ended June 30, but the sharp rise of recent years slackened, the government reported Sunday.

The Census Bureau said the 1958 total was an increase of 374 million dollars, 2.6 per cent, over the 1957 figure. But it noted that this was the smallest percentage hike in recent years.

The 1957-58 rate of increase in tax collections was only slightly more than the percentage growth in population, the bureau added, and total levies per capita actually dropped in one-third of the 48 states.

California led the nation with $1,647,000,000 in state taxes, followed by New York with $1,501,000,000.

First American Jetliner Lands At Idlewild Airport

NEW YORK (UPI)—Pan American World Airways completed the nation's first commercial jet operation Sunday with the arrival at Idlewild International Airport of a sleek 375-mile-per-hour swept-wing sky giant carrying a cargo of dungarees and dolls from Puerto Rico.

A crew of five and 33 Pan American and Boeing Aviation Company officials were aboard the four-jet civilian counterpart of the Air Force's KC135 tanker plane when it whistled down from a clear blue sky to a smooth landing at 9:25 a. m. e.d.t., 3 hours and 24 minutes after leaving San Juan.

All of the passengers were guests. The cargo was the only payload. Pan American will be limited to cargo flights for at least 30 days of "shakedown" operations.

Faubus Aides Draft Bill To Close School If Negroes Returned

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus' office Sunday worked on legislation to close Central High School completely if Negro students are returned to its classrooms, either by court edict or by federal force.

It was learned such a bill definitely will be submitted to the 126-man Arkansas State Legislature later in the week. Faubus Saturday summoned the legislators into emergency session on Tuesday at 11 a. m. (CST).

The governor was in a weekend round of conferences with key state and legislative aides. Among those being contacted were members of the potent Pulaski County delegation, which includes 11 senators and representatives from Little Rock.

Support of any bill the governor offers the Legislature seemed assured. Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett predicted to a newsmen: "Come Sept. 2 there will be no troops around the school and the seven Negroes will not be inside."

Faubus hopes special legislation will counter any last-minute Supreme Court mandate for the return of seven Negro pupils to Central High when it reopens Sept. 2. A year ago, when Negroes first entered, white rioting occurred and President Eisenhower sent federal troops into the South-east capital.

Faubus claims he repeatedly has been tipped off that the mood of local segregationists is even more violent this year than it was last. He said he called the Legislature "to combat by legal means the forcible integration of the Little Rock high schools and to avoid the almost certain disorders that would ensue."

Re-entry of seven Negroes into Central currently is stymied by a 30-day integration stay granted last week by the 8th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis. The National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People has asked U. S. Supreme Court Justice Charles E. Whittaker to supercede—that is, to upset—the stay. A decision is not expected before next Thursday, at the earliest.

Plane Crash Fatal To Baltimore Woman

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Miss Ruth Crawford, 45, Baltimore, Md., one of nine persons injured in an airplane crash Wednesday, died Sunday in a hospital here.

Miss Crawford, a physical education instructor at Notre Dame Academy in Baltimore, suffered a severe scalp laceration, multiple cuts and bruises, and shock.

The twin-engine Alaska Coastal Airlines amphibian, carrying eight passengers and a pilot, went down in Lynn Canal, 70 miles north of here, on an 85-mile flight from Juneau to Haines.

Miss Crawford's mother, Mrs. Estella Mehner, 75, also of Baltimore, was injured critically in the crash but was reported recovering at St. Ann's Hospital.

The others aboard, including Mrs. Mildred Ruth, 56, also of Baltimore, were less seriously injured. All were reported in good condition at the hospital Sunday.

Four Burn To Death In Wrecked Auto

EASTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — A car overturned and burned on Route 44 here Sunday, killing four persons from Massachusetts who were trapped in the rear seat.

State Police identified the victims as John Andrae, 28, and Manual Gomes, 18, both of East Fairhaven; Elaine Pemberton, 15, of New Bedford, and John Scott, 21, of New Bedford.

The driver, James Gibbons, 20, of East Fairhaven, and two front seat passengers escaped but were hospitalized.

Social Security Measure Called "Deflationary"

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Social Security overhaul bill on President Eisenhower's desk is tilted in the direction of deflation rather than inflation, congressional and government experts said Sunday.

They cited figures which indicated the measure also would help the Treasury raise money to meet mounting federal deficits.

These forecasts shape up as two of the most significant economic effects if the measure becomes law. The bill went to Eisenhower last Tuesday and congressional leaders predict he will sign it.

Statisticians said the legislation wouldn't add to current inflation worries because they said it would take dollars out of circulation. Over the next quarter century, they said, the government would collect billions more in Social Security taxes than it would pay out in benefits.

These surpluses, by law, would be invested only in government securities.

Thus the prospect of a surplus would help ease the Treasury's worries over finding bond buyers.

When the Social Security trust funds buy U. S. bonds there is no inflationary effect. In contrast, bank purchases of bonds often are inflationary. This is so because the value of the bond is added to the reserve of the banks, increasing their ability to extend credit—in effect creating new money.

The bill would raise retirement benefits about 7 per cent next February and boost payroll taxes on workers and employers from 2 1/2 to 2 3/4 per cent in January. It also would raise the taxable wage base from the first $4,200 of wages of year to $4,800 starting next year.

Another section would increase by 197 million dollars the annual federal contribution to state-operated public assistance programs. Congress voted this over strong administration objections.

Film Actress Janet Leigh Shaken Up In Auto Crash

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Janet Leigh, who is expecting a baby in November, was shaken up Sunday in a three-car traffic pile-up.

She was taken to the medical center at the University of California at Los Angeles. After treatment for shock she was taken home by her husband, actor Tony Curtis.

Also shaken up in the accident were Curtis, singer Dean Martin and his wife Jean, and songwriter Sammy Cahn and his wife Gloria. Singer Frank Sinatra and comedian Ernie Kovacs and his wife, actress Edie Adams, were in another car and witnessed the accident.

Police said the accident was caused by a motorist who was trying to ram another car. Investigation is continuing.

Big Guns Shell Islands; Naval Fight Reported

TAIPEI, Formosa, Monday (AP)—Red China's guns battered the Quemoy and nearby Tan islands early Monday. The heavy shooting followed two night bombardments attended by the first Red Chinese aerial attacks on the Nationalist islands.

The Defense Ministry announced the Reds started shelling Quemoy at 7:35 a.m. and at 8 a.m. extended the attack to Little Quoy and the Tan group. "It described the bombardment as all-out."

The Communist air force, now equipped with Soviet MIG17 fighters, made its first aerial strike against the island garrisons during a bombardment of nearly two hours Sunday evening.

The Defense Ministry said the Reds followed this up with a strafing raid by eight planes and a 10-minute artillery bombardment that started at 12:50 a.m. Monday.

These attacks, coupled with word of a naval clash southwest of the Red fortress island of Amoy set off rumors of an imminent Communist attempt to seize the Nationalist-held Tan islands. The Defense Ministry said it had no such reports.

The Tan islands are 2 1/2 miles south of Amoy. They curb shipping into the port of Amoy, but otherwise are unimportant. Their total area is about 143 acres. It has been predicted in Taipei the Reds might attempt to take such unimportant islands for propaganda purposes.

Radio Peiping said Red Chinese artillery hit a Nationalist troopship en route to Quemoy Sunday afternoon. The broadcast said the ship was stranded in Liao Bay, near the Fukien coast. It did not mention casualties. A Peiping broadcast Saturday said a record bombardment of Quemoy on that day was launched because Nationalist troop transports were sighted carrying a large number of reinforcements to Quemoy. Another Red version was that the troopships were headed toward Amoy.

Quemoy and Little Quemoy, from five to 10 miles east of Amoy were pounded by a record Red artillery barrage Saturday. The nationalists said 41,000 shells fell on the islands in a fierce artillery duel. They said the bombardment killed or wounded 200 Nationalist military personnel. Eleven civilians were killed and 18 wounded. There were no casualties among the members of the U.S. Military Assistance Advisory Group on the island.

Tropical Storm "Daisy" Spotted Off Florida Coast

MIAMI (UPI) — The season's fourth tropical storm, packing winds of 55 miles an hour, formed in the Atlantic Sunday, only 300 miles off the Florida coast.

In its first advisory on storm "Daisy," the Miami Weather Bureau said a Navy hurricane hunter plane found the storm's center about 300 miles east-northeast of Miami, at latitude 26.9 north, longitude 75.7 west, at 8 p. m. e.s.t.

Daisy was moving to the northwest at 10 to 12 miles per hour. Weather Bureau forecasters felt that the storm probably would turn away from the mainland later.

'Moon' Radio Voice Heard Only Briefly

Failure Mystifies Scientists; Blastoff Apparently Normal

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The Army splendidly launched a Jupiter-C rocket to a possible altitude of 200 miles or more early Sunday but failed to put its Explorer V satellite into orbit.

The satellite's radio voice was heard only briefly during the upward flight by a receiving station at Ft. Monmouth, N. J. Then there was only silence.

Hours after the apparently normal blastoff at 1:17 a.m. EST, teams of weary scientists were still studying their test data, trying to determine what went wrong.

They had counted particularly on the 80-inch tubular satellite to help analyze the intense high-altitude radiation that has riddled earlier satellites and saturated their instruments.

All Stages Fired Properly Previously launched earth moons have demonstrated already that strong shielding must be provided to prevent a human space traveler from quick radiation death.

Six hours after the launching the Defense Department in Washington said definitely that Explorer V did not achieve an orbit around the earth.

A department spokesman said there was every indication, however, that all four stages of the 70-foot launching rocket had fired properly.

That was the way it looked from the launching site, all during the hours-long preliminary countdown and through the brilliantly sure and steady liftoff and climb toward the stars.

50 Gallons Of Fuel A Second Spurring a yellow flame 100 feet long, the rocket rose vertically for several seconds, gulping its tons of propellant at the rate of 50 gallons a second.

Several seconds after the launching, when it had attained aerodynamic stability, the rocket started tilting gradually into its curved ballistic path towards the northeast.

Onlookers at the missile test center and on the miles of beaches facing the launch area saw the vehicle climb on a tall or fire through the star-speckled sky for a full 2 1/2 minutes.

Soviet U-Boat Crash Program Menaces West

LONDON (UPI) — Russia is building up powerful submarine striking forces at the rate of about 100 new vessels a year in a massive challenge to Western naval supremacy in the Mediterranean and the Far East, intelligence sources said Sunday.

The sources said these Soviet undersea forces may soon pose a major threat to the U. S. 6th and 7th Fleets. They said that although the United States apparently is alone in the nuclear submarine field, the sheer weight of numbers favors Russia.

The Soviet Union, according to the best Western estimates, already has a force of about 500 submarines. This is more than Nazi Germany ever had at the peak of its World War II U-boat campaign and about nine times the size of the U-boat force with which Hitler started the war.

Western intelligence estimates indicate the Russians now are rushing a submarine construction program at the rate of about 100 a year. The ultimate Soviet goal may be 1,000 or even 1,200 submarines. Western experts believe.

The Russians themselves gave the West a pointed warning last week of the submarine menace they are building up.

A task force of four Russian subs and — mother ship sailed down the English Channel Wednesday right through the British radar tracking screens.

The subs belonged to the latest "W" class—1,500-ton craft armed with twin three-inch guns and anti-aircraft guns. They have a range of up to 20,000 miles.

The fact that the subs moved at a leisurely pace down the channel on the surface showed that Russia wanted the West to know they were on the move.

Probers Will Keep Pressure On Hoffa

Hearings Go On Despite Adjournment

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Rackets Committee, with other congressional business out of the way, was expected to spend the next five months in putting constant pressure on its prime target, Teamster President James R. Hoffa.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) has scheduled prompt resumption of public hearings Tuesday despite the adjournment of Congress until next January.

This week's sessions will center around Teamster Vice President Harold J. Gibbons of St. Louis, one of Hoffa's right hand men in the Central States Conference.

But the committee's major focus whether he testifies or not, will be on Hoffa—who sat silent last week through a parade of witnesses with present or past connections to his giant union.

The committee's mood was reflected in dubious reactions Saturday to Hoffa's announcement that he had named a three-member "anti-racketeering commission" to

85th Congress Session Had Its Lighter Side

WASHINGTON (AP) It was mostly business as usual during the 85th Congress but there were times when the business became a bit unusual.

Consider the legislative life from these less-weighty angles:

MUSIC—During a hearing on song royalties, Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee became peeved at composer Billy Rose for labeling country music "obscene junk." Clement, a onetime FBI agent, went to work and uncovered evidence that Rose once wrote a song called, "Does the Spearmint Lose Its Flavor on the Bedpost Overnight?"

PRESS AGENCY — Bernard Goldfine took the season's honors for having one of the most industrious public relations entourage. When reporters descended upon Goldfine at Washington National Airport, where he was enplaning for his home, the Boston industrialist reached in his pocket, pulled out a slip of paper, and read as follows:

"Gentlemen, I am delighted to be back in Boston."

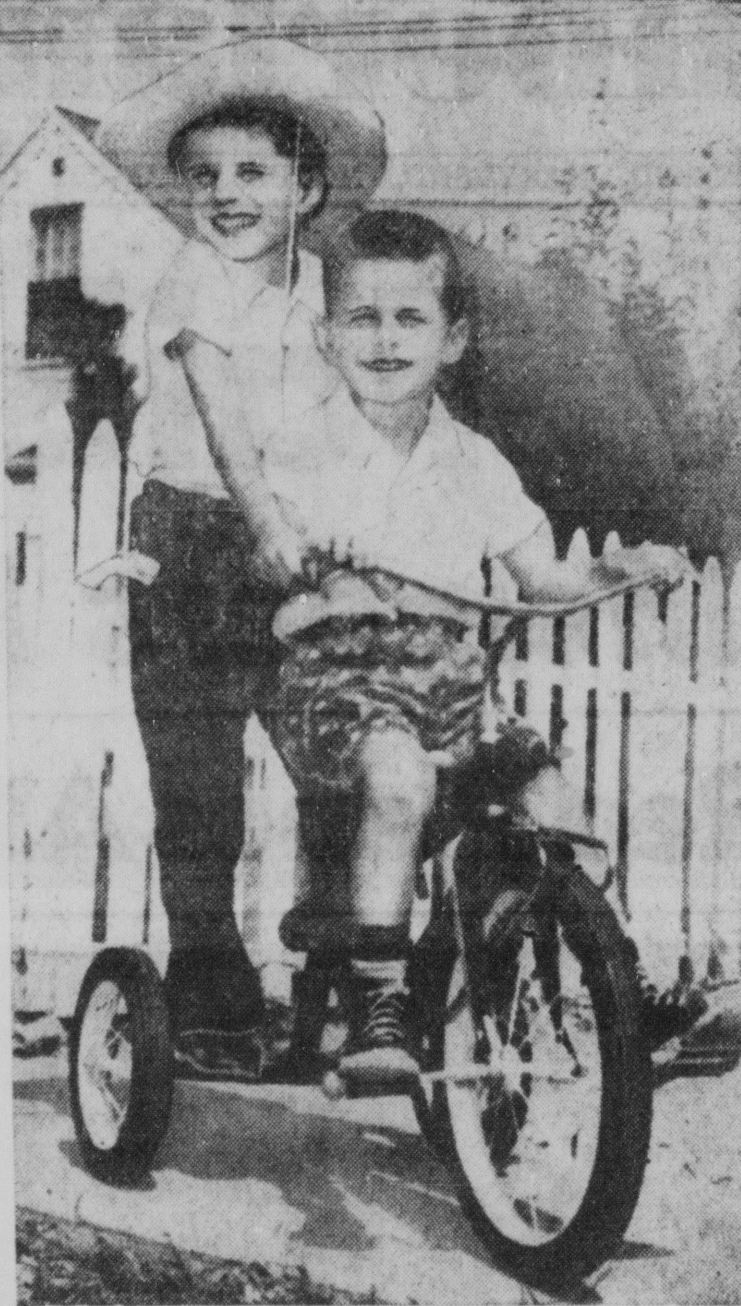

THE LADIES—As usual, they made news. Rep. Coya Knutson (D-Minn.) was asked by her husband to give up the political life for the peaceful life back home. She refused.

Rep. Katharine St. George (R-NY) took a jet plane ride and promptly laid claim to being "the fastest woman in Congress."

And Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Maine), billed herself as the cheapest woman in Congress—because the taxpayers don't have to provide her with a swimming pool, gymnasium and barber shops, as they do the male members.

BIG PUSH—Sen. Frank Lausche (D-Ohio), protesting at the way things were handled during the adjournment rush, suggested "we ought to have a constitutional amendment making all acts passed by Congress in the last 10 days of a session unconstitutional."

Some two-thirds of American couples over 65 years old own their own homes.

'ONE OF THE RAREST . . . '—Completely recovered from a rare heart operation last October, Howard Schwartz, 5, of Morningside, Md., near Washington, D. C., hitches a ride with his brother, Richard, 4, who soon will undergo the identical operation. Howard's operation repaired congenital holes in the inner chamber of his heart. The heart defect is not hereditary, according to the boys' father, and finding brothers with this type ailment "is one of the rarest things . . ."

Laborer Held For Kidnaping, Assaulting Girl

ELKTON, Md. (AP) — A teenage girl's story of being kidnaped and raped has resulted in charges against a 28-year-old general laborer.

Maynard M. Church, who gave two addresses in Maryland and one in Pennsylvania, was held in the Cecil County Jail Sunday, pending a preliminary hearing.

State police First Sgt. Earl J. Lewis said the case would be brought before the Cecil County grand jury which convenes in early September, but that a hearing probably would be arranged before that time. No date has been set, he said, and no bail has been set for Church.

Church was arrested at a road block in Cecil County early Saturday after State Police were alerted to the kidnaping of a 16-year-old girl from Mechanicsburg, Pa.

Hysterical when she returned to the fishing pier at Port Deposit where she had been abducted, she later told authorities she had been sexually attacked several times.

Police said a medical examination confirmed this.

The girl said she was forced into a car by a stranger while waiting for her father to return from fishing. The slightly built girl related to authorities that she had been taken by the man to a home. But a woman there persuaded her abductor to release her, she said.

Church was arrested at the intersections of Maryland 272 and 278 near the Pennsylvania line by Trooper IC William D. Fossett, formerly of Cumberland. Police said he listed addresses at Port Deposit, Baltimore and New London, Pa.

Weekend Accidents Kill At Least Six In Maryland

By The Associated Press

Accidents claimed at least six lives in Maryland during the weekend.

An Eastern Shore mishap that killed Mrs. Ann Rumbley, 35, of Elkton, Saturday night injured 10 other persons. The accident happened on Maryland 404 half a mile west of Denton in Caroline County.

Three of Mrs. Rumbley's children were in critical condition in Eastern Memorial Hospital.

In neighboring Pennsylvania, Mrs. Hazel C. Hench, 65, of Lancaster, Pa., died Saturday of injuries she received six days earlier in an accident at Rock Hall, Md.

Mrs. Hench, struck by a car backing out of a parking lot, had been treated and released from a Chestertown hospital. A deputy medical examiner in Lancaster attributed death to a blood clot.

Wendell Winstead, 19, of Brooklandville, Baltimore County, fatally injured Saturday when pinned beneath his truck on Pimlico Road.

James E. Clemons, 28, of Washington, killed Saturday when his car failed to make a curve and struck a pole between Norbeck and Redland, Md.

Isaiah R. Baker, 29, of Pasadena, struck and killed by a car Saturday while walking on Maryland 607 in Anne Arundel County.

Robert Poore, 24, of Baltimore, died Saturday of a skull fracture suffered Friday when a car in which he was riding struck a pole.

Corn Poisons 41 Cows; 21 Dead

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — A herd of 41 pure bred dairy cows has been poisoned by eating sweet corn and 21 of the animals have died, the owner said Sunday.

Ernest Handy of Bucktown, nine miles south of here, said most of his prize herd were registered pure bred Holstein cows. He estimated his loss in cows and milk at about $20,000.

Three veterinarians have been working around the clock to save the animals, which strayed into the dumped pile of corn and husks Friday.

Handy said he had bought the corn at a cannery with the intention of freezing it for human consumption later. But it was too old and he dumped it on the farmyard.

The veterinarians have operated on six, Handy said, and have administered medicine to all those stricken.

Dr. Walter J. Hastings Jr., one of the vets, explained there was nothing basically wrong with the corn. But when eaten by cows unaccustomed to it, it causes fermentation inside the stomach. This produces a toxic condition and when absorbed into the system causes heart failure, Dr. Hastings said.

Then the rocket flame flickered out in a puff of white smoke. Apparently the modified Redstone missile first stage of the rocket had separated from the upper stages some 60 miles aloft, exactly as planned.

The solid-propellant upper stages had been set to spinning shortly before the launching, like the business end of a dentist's drill, in order to give stability for space flight.

The second stage consisted of 11 modified Sergeant rockets clustered around the third stage of three, and the final stage of one Sergeant.

The satellite was a part of the final stage—a 33-inch-long instrument compartment attached to the 47-inch-long, fourth-stage motor case.

Three hours after the firing, Brig. Gen. John A. Barclay, chief of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency, told a news conference that the chances of an orbit for Explorer V appeared to be very remote.

Barclay said that after an initial report from Ft. Monmouth, no further signals had been received from the satellite although there had been time by then for a complete orbit around the earth.

Barclay said the men in charge of the project would have to wait for further information before determining what had happened.

Shaped like an oversize artillery shell, the satellite weighed 37½ pounds, four-tenths of a pound more than the successful Explorer IV.

Young Makeshift Bullfighter Provokes Charge-In Court

BALTIMORE (AP)—Visitors to the city zoo almost saw some thrilling action when a lad with an imagination challenged a bull, using a red blanket and a long stick.

"Ever since I was a child I always liked bullfights," 17-year-old Joseph Gerber explained himself to the Police Court magistrate Sunday.

Zoo keeper Maurice Lane testified that young Gerber had climbed into a pen where a Texas longhorn bull and its cow companion reside. The bull got quite agitated, said Lane, but the makeshift bullfighter was spared contact by park police who arrested him.

Said Magistrate Henry Rogers, "I know I shouldn't talk like this—but this is the damndest case I ever heard. What were you trying to do?"

"Trying to provoke a charge," Gerber replied.

The collector of books on bullfighting succeeded. The magistrate charged him with disorderly conduct, ordered him held in $51.45 collateral and postponed the case until next Sunday. Rogers ordered an investigation of the case by social workers.

Probers Will Keep Pressure On Hoffa

Hearings Go On Despite Adjournment

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Rackets Committee, with other congressional business out of the way, was expected to spend the next five months in putting constant pressure on its prime target, Teamster President James R. Hoffa.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) has scheduled prompt resumption of public hearings Tuesday despite the adjournment of Congress until next January.

The committee's mood was reflected in dubious reactions Saturday to Hoffa's announcement that he had named a three-member "anti-racketeering commission" to purge his union of charges it is dominated by gangsters.

McClellan said the test of the commission's good faith would be whether it moves against "Mr. Hoffa, himself."

Hoffa's three appointees are ex-Sen. George Bender (R-Ohio), F. Joseph (Jiggs) Donohue, former president of the District of Columbia commissioners, and Ira W. Jayne, retired chief judge of the Circuit Court of Michigan and law professor at Wayne University.

The Rackets Committee, created in early 1957 to survey improper practices by labor and management, has been credited with depositing some notable labor figures, including Hoffa's predecessor Dave Beck.

But Hoffa followed Beck as president of the 1,500,000-member transport union, a result committee members clearly feel was no improvement. The committee is expected to use its remaining five months of life in persistent efforts to correct what is wrong.

85th Congress Session Had Its Lighter Side

WASHINGTON (AP) It was mostly business as usual during the 85th Congress but there were times when the business became a bit unusual.

Consider the legislative life from these less-weighty angles:

MUSIC—During a hearing on song royalties, Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee became peeved at composer Billy Rose for labeling country music "obscene junk." Clement, a onetime FBI agent, went to work and uncovered evidence that Rose once wrote a song called, "Does the Spearmint Lose its Flavor on the Bedpost Overnight?"

PRESS AGENCY — Bernard Goldfine took the season's honors for having one of the most industrious public relations entourages. When reporters descended upon Goldfine at Washington National Airport, where he was enplaning for his home, the Boston industrialist reached in his pocket, pulled out a slip of paper, and read as follows:

"Gentlemen, I am delighted to be back in Boston."

THE LADIES—As usual, they made news. Rep. Coya Knutson (D-Minn) was asked by her husband to give up the political life for the peaceful life back home. She refused. Rep. Katharine St. George (R-N.Y.) took a jet plane ride and promptly laid claim to being "the fastest woman in Congress". And Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Maine), billed herself as the cheapest woman in Congress—because the taxpayers don't have to provide her with a swimming pool, gymnasium and barber shops, as they do the male members.

BIG PUSH—Sen. Frank Lausche (D-Ohio), protesting at the way things were handled during the adjournment rush, suggested "we ought to have a constitutional amendment making all acts passed by Congress in the last 10 days of a session unconstitutional."

Khrushchev Sees War As Unlikely

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev has assured Soviet citizens he personally does not think there will be another war.

"Of course one cannot give any guarantee for lunatics who exist in the imperialist world," he said, "but it seems to me that at the present time we do not have the kind of clouds from which thunder might crash."

The statement was made at a speech in Smolensk on Aug. 13 which was published Sunday in

'ONE OF THE RAREST'...—Completely recovered from a rare heart operation last October, Howard Schwartz, 5, of Morningside, Md., near Washington, D. C., hitches a ride with his brother, Richard, 4, who soon will undergo the identical operation. Howard's operation repaired congenital holes in the inner chamber of his heart. The heart defect is not hereditary, according to the boys' father, and finding brothers with this type ailment "is one of the rarest things..."

Then the rocket flame flickered out in a puff of white smoke. Apparently the modified Redstone missile first stage of the rocket had separated from the upper stages some 60 miles aloft, exactly as planned.

The solid-propellant upper stages had been set to spinning shortly before the launching, like the business end of a dentist's drill, in order to give stability for space flight.

The second stage consisted of 11 modified Sergeant rockets clustered around the third stage of three, and the final stage of one Sergeant.

The satellite was a part of the final stage—a 33-inch-long instrument compartment attached to the 47-inch-long, fourth-stage motor case.

Three hours after the firing, Brig. Gen. John A. Barclay, chief of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency, told a news conference that the chances of an orbit for Explorer V appeared to be very remote.

Barclay said that after an initial report from Ft. Monmouth, no further signals had been received from the satellite although there had been time then for a complete orbit around the earth.

Barclay said the men in charge of the project would have to wait for further information before determining what had happened.

Shaped like an oversized artillery shell, the satellite weighed 37½ pounds, four-tenths of a pound more than the successful Explorer IV.

Reciprocal trade extension, enacted.

Tax rate extension, enacted.

Loans for college students, enacted.

National debt increases, enacted.

Federal employe pay raises, enacted.

Postal workers' pay raises, enacted.

Military pay raises, enacted.

Emergency housing, enacted.

New housing programs, killed by House.

Presidential succession, died in committee.

Farm price freeze, vetoed.

Natural gas regulation, died on House calendar.

Highway construction program, enacted.

Defense reorganization, enacted.

Foreign aid extension, enacted.

Pension for ex-presidents, enacted.

Rivers 1 harbors construction, enacted.

Jobless pay extension, enacted.

Union welfare fund regulation, enacted.

General labor legislation, killed by House.

General farm legislation, enacted.

Minerals subsidies, killed by House.

Small boat registration, enacted.

Federal aid for depressed areas, enacted.

Curbs on Supreme Court, killed by Senate.

Professional sports legal status, killed by Senate.

Laborer Held For Kidnaping, Assaulting Girl

ELKTON, Md. (AP) — A teenage girl's story of being kidnaped and raped has resulted in charges against a 28-year-old general laborer.

Maynard M. Church, who gave two addresses in Maryland and one in Pennsylvania, was held in the Cecil County Jail Sunday, pending a preliminary hearing.

State police First Sgt. Earl J. Lewis said the case would be brought before the Cecil County grand jury which convenes in early September, but that a hearing probably would be arranged before that time. No date has been set, he said, and no bail has been set for Church.

Church was arrested at a roadblock in Cecil County early Saturday after State Police were alerted to the kidnaping of a 16-year-old girl from Mechanicsburg, Pa.

Hysterical when she returned to the fishing pier at Port Deposit where she had been abducted, she later told authorities she had been sexually attacked several times.

Police said a medical examination confirmed this.

The girl said she was forced into a car by a stranger while waiting for her father to return from fishing. The slightly built girl related to authorities that she had been taken by the man to a home. But a woman there persuaded her abductor to release her, she said.

Church was arrested at the intersections of Maryland 272 and 278 near the Pennsylvania line by Trooper IC William D. Fossett, formerly of Cumberland. Police said he listed addresses at Port Deposit, Baltimore and New London, Pa.

Weekend Accidents Kill At Least Six In Maryland

By The Associated Press

Accidents claimed at least six lives in Maryland during the weekend.

An Eastern Shore mishap that killed Mrs. Ann Rumbley, 35, of Elkton, Saturday night injured 10 other persons. The accident happened on Maryland 404 half a mile west of Denton in Caroline County.

Three of Mrs. Rumbley's children were in critical condition in Eastern Memorial Hospital.

In neighboring Pennsylvania, Mrs. Hazel C. Hench, 65, of Lancaster, Pa., died Saturday of injuries she received six days earlier in an accident at Rock Hall, Md.

Mrs. Hench, struck by a car backing out of a parking lot, had been treated and released from a Chestertown hospital. A deputy medical examiner in Lancaster attributed death to a blood clot.

Wendell Winstead, 19, of Brooklandville, Baltimore County, fatally injured Saturday when pinned beneath his truck on Pimlico Road.

James E. Clemons, 28, of Washington, killed Saturday when his car failed to make a curve and struck a pole between Norbeck and Redland, Md.

Isaiah R. Baker, 29, of Pasadena, struck and killed by a car Saturday while walking on Maryland 607 in Anne Arundel County.

Robert Poore, 24, of Baltimore, died Saturday of a skull fracture suffered Friday when a car in which he was riding struck a pole.

Corn Poisons 41 Cows; 21 Dead

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — A herd of 41 pure bred dairy cows has been poisoned by eating sweet corn and 21 of the animals have died, the owner said Sunday.

Ernest Handy of Bucktown, nine miles south of here, said most of his prize herd were registered pure bred Holstein cows. He estimated his loss in cows and milk at about $20,000.

Three veterinarians have been working around the clock to save the animals, which strayed into the dumped pile of corn and husks Friday.

Handy said he had bought the corn at a cannery with the intention of freezing it for human consumption later. But it was too old and he dumped it on the farmyard.

The veterinarians have operated on six, Handy said, and have administered medicine to all those stricken.

Dr. Walter J. Hastings Jr., one of the vets, explained there was nothing basically wrong with the corn. But when eaten by cows unaccustomed to it, it causes fermentation inside the stomach. This produces a toxic condition and when absorbed into the system causes heart failure, Dr. Hastings said.

Hagerstown Market Robbed Of $4,933

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Thieves broke into the H. L. Mills Super Market Sunday and made off with $4,933 in cash after breaking open two company safes.

State Trooper Dave Hasenbuehler said the bandits entered the boiler room of the food store through an air vent and then, using chisels, cut out a 4-foot section of cinder block wall to reach the area of the two safes.

Hasenbuehler said the thieves used acetylene torches to cut through the walls of the safes. They left the boxes and drawers in the safes strewn about the room after taking the cash.

ing him. It was the last of a series of bills aimed at recent Supreme Court rulings that went down to defeat in the closing days.

The other measure left stranded was a bill proposing the diversion of additional Lake Michigan waters into the Chicago sanitary system.

The Senate's adjournment was marked by an exchange of mutual admiration expressions by the two opposing political leaders, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), the majority leader, and Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.), the minority leader.

Knowland, who is leaving the Senate after 13 years to run for governor of California, voiced "great personal affection" for Johnson in his farewell speech. Johnson, returning the compliment, called Knowland "a man of integrity—one of my best personal friends."

Since convening in January 1957, the 85th Congress has grappled with a business recession, Soviet scientific advances, Middle East crises, and the brand new problems of the space age.

The 85th is sure to be remembered, too, for voting to admit Alaska as the 49th state—the first new state in 46 years—and for establishing a 4-cent letter stamp after a quarter century of 3-cent mail.

The 1957 session also passed the first civil rights bill in more than 75 years—a measure finally stripped down largely to new federal powers to enforce voting rights plus a Civil Rights Commission.

The 85th had many twists and wide swings of voting sentiment. Shortly after it met Jan. 3 last year, Eisenhower's $71,800,000 spending budget—a peacetime record—touched off a wave of economy demands.

These lasted through the 1957 session and the lawmakers chopped about five billion dollars off the President's appropriations requests.

But, soon after the 1957 session ended Aug. 30, a business slump set in and Russia fired two successful earth satellites.

These presented an entirely new picture when Congress returned this year. Economy scarcely was mentioned until recently when estimates of the budget deficit for the year ahead mounted to 12 billion dollars.

Instead, there were demands for all sorts of measures to halt mounting jobless figures and to whip up the U. S. pace in missiles and rockets.

Many of these bills were passed, so that this Congress piled up one of the most impressive lists of major legislation in a long time.

In one respect the 85th came full circle. It first met in a Middle East crisis growing out of the Suez invasion. Its first major act was to pass the Eisenhower Doctrine resolution giving the President authority to use U. S. military forces to prevent open Russian aggression in the area.

And the Congress adjourned in another Middle East crisis with U. S. Marines in Lebanon in the wake of the Iraqi revolt. But on this it took no official action although most members supported Eisenhower's proposals to the United Nations.

Eisenhower said last summer he was "tremendously disappointed" with the first session of the 85th. But this year the President got most of his big must items, although he had to take some compromises.

He was granted extensive powers to reorganize the Defense Department, although not quite all he asked.

Democrats controlled the 85th Congress but strict party-line fights were a rarity through both sessions. Most major bills commanded bipartisan support, in some issues the key support came from Democrats.

In its two sessions the 85th voted about 143 billion dollars of new appropriations—a record for any peacetime Congress.

ing him. It was the last of a series of bills aimed at recent Supreme Court rulings that went down to defeat in the closing days.

The other measure left stranded was a bill proposing the diversion of additional Lake Michigan waters into the Chicago sanitary system.

The Senate's adjournment was marked by an exchange of mutual admiration expressions by the two opposing political leaders, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), the majority leader, and Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.), the minority leader.

Knowland, who is leaving the Senate after 13 years to run for governor of California, voiced "great personal affection" for Johnson in his farewell speech.

Johnson, returning the compliment, called Knowland "a man of integrity—one of my best personal friends."

Since convening in January 1957, the 85th Congress has grappled with a business recession, Soviet scientific advances, Middle East crises, and the brand new problems of the space age.

The 85th is sure to be remembered, too, for voting to admit Alaska as the 49th state—the first new state in 46 years—and for establishing a 4-cent letter stamp after a quarter century of 3-cent mail.

The 1957 session also passed the first civil rights bill in more than 75 years—a measure finally stripped down largely to new federal powers to enforce voting rights plus a Civil Rights Commission.

The 85th had many twists and wide swings of voting sentiment. Shortly after it met Jan. 3 last year, Eisenhower's $71,800,000,000 spending budget—a peacetime record—touched off a wave of economy demands.

These lasted through the 1957 session and the lawmakers chopped about five billion dollars off the President's appropriations requests.

But, soon after the 1957 session ended Aug. 30, a business slump set in and Russia fired two successful earth satellites.

These presented an entirely new picture when Congress returned this year. Economy scarcely was mentioned until recently when estimates of the budget deficit for the year ahead mounted to 12 billion dollars.

Instead, there were demands for all sorts of measures to halt mounting jobless figures and to whip up the U. S. pace in missiles and rockets.

Many of these bills were passed, so that this Congress piled up one of the most impressive lists of major legislation in a long time.

In one respect the 85th came full circle. It first met in a Middle East crisis growing out of the Suez invasion. Its first major act was to pass the Eisenhower Doctrine resolution giving the President authority to use U. S. military forces to prevent open Russian aggression in the area.

And the Congress adjourned in another Middle East crisis with U. S. Marines in Lebanon in the wake of the Iraqi revolt. But on this it took no official action although most members supported Eisenhower's proposals to the United Nations.

Eisenhower said last summer he was "tremendously disappointed" with the first session of the 85th. But this year the President got most of his big must items, although he had to take some compromises.

He was granted extensive powers to reorganize the Defense Department, although not quite all he asked.

Democrats controlled the 85th Congress but strict party-line fights were a rarity through both sessions. Most major bills commanded bipartisan support, some issues the key support came from Democrats.

In its two sessions the 85th voted about 143 billion dollars of new appropriations—a record for any peacetime Congress.

Street Light Ceremony Due At Midland

Celebration Opens Thursday

MIDLAND — A street lighting celebration will be held Thursday and Friday, beginning at 7:30 p. m. according to Mayor Lionel D. Baker.

The oldest resident of the community, Henry Stevenson, 87, who lives with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blair, Paradise Street, will have the honor of switching on the new lights. The "white way" will be illuminated at 7:30 p. m. Thursday.

The two-day celebration will include a band concert and speeches by prominent residents of the community. Refreshment stands and game parties will be sponsored by different organizations of the town for the benefit of the lighting program.

There will be a games party at the Firemen's Hall on Railroad Street. The Blue Angels drum and bugle corps of Victory Post No. 155, American Legion, Westport, will present a concert.

A dance in the American Legion Post Home will wind up the festivities Friday night. The VFW drill team of Mt. Savage also will entertain.

Midland Auxiliary Elects Officers

MIDLAND — Mary Crowe was elected president of American Legion Post 169 Ladies Auxiliary for the coming year at a recent election.

Other officers are Edna Downton, secretary; Nellie Allen, treasurer; Catherine Stakem, vice president; Elizabeth Hawkins, second vice president; Anne Stakem, chaplain; Catherine Brinegar, sergeant at arms; Mary Knippenburg and Mary Shearer, color bearers; Margaret Dawson, recording secretary; Carol Holm, historian; Catherine Stakem, child welfare chairman; Edith Cavey, poppy chairman; Catherine Brinegar, rehabilitation chairman.

A social will be held on the Legion grounds, State Route 55, Saturday, September 6, from 6 until 9 p. m. Home made ice cream, pies and candy will be sold. There also will be grab bags for the children.

Baltimore Girl Scouts Visit Frostburg

FROSTBURG—Six members of senior Girl Scout Troop 219 and their two leaders from Baltimore visited the campus of Frostburg State Teachers College as a part of their tour of Maryland studying its geology and geography.

The leaders, Miss Vivian O'Brien and Miss Jane Scheller, stated that the girls began their trip last Monday and have been camping in various state areas at night. Thursday evening they camped at New Germany. Following the trip to State Teachers College the group visited Dams Rock 3 miles from Midland.

The girls making the trip were Patricia Holmes, Jo Ann Vallen, Dora Coleman, Barbara Neuhaus, Ann German and Kathleen Powers.

Gets Knights Of Columbus Award

Rotary Plans Family Picnic

LONA CONING—Thomas Connor is chairman of the Lonaconing Rotary Club's family picnic entertainment on Wednesday at the Bradley cottage, Deep Creek Lake.

William Orr, president, appointed Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Swauger, Mr. and Mrs. James McElvie, Mr. and Mrs. John Kesner and Mr. and Mrs. William E. Orr as the refreshment committee.

The regular meeting will not be held Thursday because of the outing. Frederick H. Sheely, club secretary, gave the Board of Directors meeting report at their club dinner program last Thursday at the VFW home. Two boys from Highland Boys Camp, Chester Powell, Dundalk, and Samuel Sparks, Baltimore, were guests of the club in their new project to have two camp boys at each dinner meeting.

Winfield Adam addressed the club on United Fund. George Lomas of Kensington, was a guest.

Lonaconing Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Hurley left Friday for a vacation trip to Niagara Falls.

Mrs. Catherine Meyers and daughter, Miss Catherine Meyers, are visiting relatives in Pittsburgh and Wheeling, W. Va.

LONA CONING—Lonaconing City Band marched in the parade held at Cresaptown on Friday evening.

It will take part in the First Methodist Church bazaar on Thursday, September 4, at the church lawn on Church Hill.

Garrett County Playhouse Enters Its Final Week

OAKLAND — This week's presentation at the Garrett County Playhouse will be the final one of the season. The summer theatre personnel will give "The Moon Is Blue," by F. Hugh Herbert.

This play is described as "spicy spoof on conventional attitudes." There will be only four characters in this final number.

Becky Valdez, of Albuquerque, New Mexico, is coming to Oakland to take a part as the only girl in the show. Other participants will be Neil Flanagan, Bill Lang and Bill Pappas.

Miss Valdez is a senior at the University of New Mexico, a drama major. She just recently returned from Mexico and attended a summer theatre workshop at the University of New Mexico.

Attendance for last week was 357 with a sellout crowd Saturday night. This was about 70 less than for the week previous, but Mr. Yell said the total attendance was well above that of last year.

Artificial Snow Grounds Hornets

LONA CONING — Aaron M. "Moe" Mowbray discovered the other day that he could get rid of two nests of hornets with artificial snow.

Hornets had been making pests of themselves where Mr. Mowbray is building his new home on Jackson Street. He found that artificial snow sprayed on the hornets weighed them down so much that they dropped to the ground.

Return Home

LONA CONING—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williams, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Williams, LaVale, Mr. and Mrs. George Walbert, and sons, Rickey Lee and Jay, and Miss Judy Moffatt and Miss Lillian Williams have returned home after vacationing at Beverly Beach on the Chesapeake Bay, Annapolis and College Park.

Methodist Ministers To Convene

BUCKHANNON, W. Va. (UPI)—The annual Ministers' Fellowship opens here Monday for pastors from the 1,600 churches of the West Virginia Methodist Conference.

Four nationally-known ministers, one a native West Virginian, will address the three-day convocation at West Virginia Wesleyan College.

Dr. Albee Godbold, of St. Louis, Mo., will serve as the preacher for the fellowship. Godbold is pastor of St. John's Methodist Church in St. Louis and formerly served as a visiting lecturer at the Perkins School of Theology.

Dr. Ronald Sleeth, a native of Charleston and professor of Preaching at Vanderbilt's Divinity School, will speak on "persuasive preaching."

Other speakers are Drs. Lowell B. Hazard, Wesley Seminary, Westminster, Md., and William Douglas, of the Boston University School of Theology.

Dorothy Robertson Prepares Poster

LONA CONING — Miss Dorothy Robertson, president of Senior Tri-Hi-Y, has prepared the first poster placed on the Valley High School bulletin board for the opening of school on Thursday, September 4.

A membership drive of students of grades 10, 11, and 12 will be underway by Senior Tri-Hi-Y girls club. "Sign up today" states the colorful poster with the Tri-Hi-Y insignia painted in the center of the poster.

West Virginia Board Will Release Funds

Moorefield Lab One Of Projects

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Board of Public Works convenes in a special session Monday and it is expected to release funds to various agencies for 23 projects set up by the 1958 Legislature.

An informal opinion issued last week by the state attorney general's office stymied the board's plan to hold up release of the funds until at least next month when reports will be available on August tax receipts.

The attorney general said that wording of the budget provision made it mandatory that the money be released upon request of the agency designated to spend it.

The legislator added the projects to the 1958-59 budget, listing them in order of priority. They stipulated that they should be carried out provided the surplus at the close of the fiscal year last June 30 exceeded $1,804,618. This amount had been incorporated into regular appropriations for the 1958-59 year.

State Finance Director George Vieweg reported to the board last Wednesday that the budget surplus amounted to more than $4,000,000. However, some members felt the special funds should not be released until it was determined whether current revenue is meeting estimates made last February when the 1958-59 budget was adopted.

Items already requested include a new poultry laboratory at Moorefield, farm market facilities at Beckley, and completion of athletic fields at Concord and Shepherd State Colleges.

The State Conservation Commission has 17 projects on the priority list which would require $719,000. These include improvements at Panther State Forest, McDowell County, $74,000 and construction of an amphitheater at Grandview State Park near Beckley, $50,000.

Committees Named For KC Outing

Committees have been named to take charge of the annual corn and wiener roast and dance being sponsored on Sunday at Mt. Calvary picnic grounds by Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus.

General chairmen are William McCreary, Bruce White, Thomas Simons and Val Lydinger.

Corn and wieners will be served from 6 p. m. to 9 p. m. and dancing will follow.

John Carney will be in charge of the corn and will be assisted by Donald Hardin, Kenneth Gray and Harold Shober. George Pratt, Richard Grabenstein and John Rippilo will be in charge of the kitchen.

Jack Rorick will handle admissions while Joseph McFarland will be in charge of parking. Thomas Farrell, John O'Rourke and James Connelly will be in charge of refreshments.

In charge of games will be Frank Werner, Robert Morris, John Loibel Sr., Norman Chiridon, John Vocke and John Loibel Jr.

Valley Newspaper Starts Campaign

LONA CONING—A subscription campaign for "The Shield," Valley High School's newspaper, received its kick-off the other day when Miss Mary M. Sterbutzel, journalism faculty adviser, met with Judy Moffatt and Sandra Jones, the co-editors.

The first of the five issues for the school year is planned for soon after the opening of school.

Pettit Heads Garrett Co. Grand Jury

Will Convene On Sept. 8

OAKLAND—Howard L. Pettit of Grantsville has been named foreman of the grand jury for the September term of Garrett County Circuit Court which convenes at 10 a. m. Monday, September 8.

Grand and petit jurors were drawn last week by Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley in the presence of local attorneys and court officials.

The following also were drawn for grand jury duty:

John Bachtel, Delbert Gnegy, Harold J. Adams, J. Louis Ross, Charles Melvin Kight, Charles W. Butt, Frank E. Arnold, Emory W. Adams, Bernard M. Guy, Charley B. Miller, Eugene R. Nordeck, Thomas D. Kight, Howard B. Jones, James Vitez, George E. Coddington, Lawrence W. Brenne-man, Vane B. Iden, Asa E. Wilhelm, Dale L. Simpson and Ralph A. Murphy.

Twenty-five were listed for the petit jury. They are called to meet Thursday morning, September 11, at 9 a. m., but actually the court session never begins at that time and usually convenes the following Monday.

Those named on the petit jury include Mason L. Madigan, I. E. Turney, Howard Schlossnagle, Virgil Jones, Marshall E. Sand-Bazzie, of Princeton, would appear before the committee on Government and Finance in addition to other members of the Department of Public Safety.

Beane also announced recently that Col. Hazen H. Fair, Superintendent of the State Police, a former State Police Sgt. E. D. Bazzie, of Princeton, would appear before the committee on Government and Finance in addition to other members of the Department of Public Safety.

Beane called for a review of State Police laws at the group's last meeting July 15 following a protest by a Bluefield resident on the transfer, demotion and subsequent retirement of Bazzie, a veteran member of the Department of Public Safety.

Miss Cave is studying to be a medical missionary, while Miss Grindle is studying to be a religious educational director.

Men Of LaSalle Installation Set

Men of LaSalle officers will be installed during a meeting at 8 p. m., August 28, on the first floor of the home of Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus.

Paul Stakem will be installed as president; Joseph Divico, vice president; John Baar, secretary, and Van Parsons, treasurer. Retiring president is Fred Sitcher.

Legislators Open Special Two-Day Talks

Bean Requests Police Probe

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The Legislature's interim committees on Government and Finance and Interstate Cooperation open a two-day meeting Monday.

Included on the agenda of the committees is a report on water resources in West Virginia and an outline of powers of the State Water Commission.

Further testimony also will be heard by the group on a continuing investigation of the Public Service Commission and possible revision of the state's tax on transportation.

The joint committee on Government and Finance also has a full agenda of its own. It is scheduled to hear from Legislative Auditor C. H. Koontz on finances of the State Road Commission; a subcommittee headed by State Senate President Ralph J. Bean (D-Hardy) on last week's investigation of Hopemont Sanitarium, and another subcommittee on its recent visit to Morris Memorial Hospital at Milton which had been offered to the state.

Beane also announced recently that Col. Hazen H. Fair, Superintendent of the State Police, a former State Police Sgt. E. D. Bazzie, of Princeton, would appear before the committee on Government and Finance in addition to other members of the Department of Public Safety.

Beane called for a review of State Police laws at the group's last meeting July 15 following a protest by a Bluefield resident on the transfer, demotion and subsequent retirement of Bazzie, a veteran member of the Department of Public Safety.

Canoeing the Ontario Wilderness

By FRANK KUCHIRCHUK
Central Press Writer-Photographer

THE LURE of the north country, with all its lakes, rivers and forests, is one of the great pastimes of man. For adventure and fishing fun this type of country is best appreciated by canoeing and camping out.

September and October seem to be the best months in northern Ontario. The fishing, especially for lake trout, walleyes, northerns, and the fighting "muskie," is at its best and, of course, the fall colors are out in their finest.

Supplies can be obtained very readily and the cool weather gives one the feeling of tip-top health, not to mention the joy of not being bothered by insects.

Easily accessible by highway or plane from anywhere in the midwest, it is no wonder more and more Americans head north for their canoeing-fishing trip.

Street Light Ceremony Due At Midland

Celebration Opens Thursday

MIDLAND — A street lighting celebration will be held Thursday and Friday, beginning at 7:30 p. m., according to Mayor Lionel D. Baker.

The oldest resident of the community, Henry Stevenson, 87, who lives with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blair, Paradise Street, will have the honor of switching on the new lights. The "white way" will be illuminated at 7:30 p. m. Thursday.

The two-day celebration will include a band concert and speeches by prominent residents of the community. Refreshment stands and game parties will be sponsored by different organizations of the town for the benefit of the lighting program.

There will be a games party at the Firemen's Hall on Railroad Street. The Blue Angels drum and bugle corps of Victory Post No. 155, American Legion, Westport, will present a concert.

A dance in the American Legion Post Home will wind up the festivities Friday night. The VFW drill team of Mt. Savage also will entertain.

Midland Auxiliary Elects Officers

MIDLAND — Mary Crowe was elected president of the American Legion Post 169 Ladies Auxiliary for the coming year at a recent election.

Other officers are Edna Downum, secretary; Nellie Allen, treasurer; Catherine Stakem, vice president; Elizabeth Hawkins, second vice president; Anne Stakem, chaplain; Catherine Brinegar, sergeant at arms; Mary Knippenburg and Mary Shearer, color bearers; Margaret Dawson, recording secretary; Carol Holm, historian; Catherine Stakem, child welfare chairman; Edith Cavey, poppy chairman; Catherine Brinegar, rehabilitation chairman.

A social will be held on the Legion grounds, State Route 55, Saturday, September 6, from 6 until 9 p. m. Home made ice cream, pies and candy will be sold. There also will be grab bags for the children.

Baltimore Girl Scouts Visit Frostburg

FROSTBURG—Six members of senior Girl Scout Troop 219 and their two leaders from Baltimore visited the campus of Frostburg State Teachers College as a part of their tour of Maryland studying its geology and geography.

The leaders, Miss Vivian O'Brien and Miss Jane Scheller, stated that the girls began their trip last Monday and have been camping in various state areas at night. Thursday evening they camped at New Germany. Following the trip to State Teachers College the group visited Dans Rock 3 miles from Midland.

The girls making the trip were Patricia Holmes, Jo Ann Velten, Dora Coleman, Barbara Neuhaus, Ann German and Kathleen Powers.

Gets Knights Of Columbus Award

Rotary Plans Family Picnic

LONACONING—Thomas Connor is chairman of the Lonaconing Rotary Club's family picnic entertainment on Wednesday at the Bradley cottage, Deep Creek Lake.

William Orr, president, appointed Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Swauger, Mr. and Mrs. James McElvie, Mr. and Mrs. John Kesner and Mr. and Mrs. William E. Orr as the refreshment committee.

The regular meeting will not be held Thursday because of the outing. Frederick H. Sheely, club secretary, gave the Board of Directors meeting report at their club dinner program last Thursday at the VFW home. Two boys from Highland Boys Camp, Chester Powell, Dundalk, and Samuel Sparks, Baltimore, were guests of the club in their new project to have two camp boys at each dinner meeting.

Winfield Adam addressed the club on United Fund. George Lomas of Kensington, was a guest.

Lonaconing Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Hurley left Friday for a vacation trip to Niagara Falls.

Mrs. Catherine Meyers and daughter, Miss Catherine Meyers, are visiting relatives in Pittsburgh and Wheeling, W. Va.

Alexander Anderson, Watercliff, was taken to Miners Hospital, Frostburg, on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John O. Watten-schmidt and children, Beverly and Bobby, spent the past week at their South Branch cottage.

Lonaconing Band Joins In Parade

LONACONING—Lonaconing City Band marched in the parade held at Cresaptown on Friday evening.

It will take part in the First Methodist Church bazaar on Thursday, September 4, at the church lawn on Church Hill.

Garrett County Playhouse Enters Its Final Week

OAKLAND — This week's presentation at the Garrett County Playhouse will be the final one of the season. The summer theatre personnel will give "The Moon Is Blue," by F. Hugh Herbert.

This play is described as "spicy spoof on conventional attitudes." There will be only four characters in this final number.

Becky Valdez, of Albuquerque, New Mexico, is coming to Oakland to take a part as the only girl in the show. Other participants will be Neil Flanagan, Bill Lang and Bill Pappas.

Miss Valdez is a senior at the University of New Mexico, a drama major. She just recently returned from Mexico and attended a summer theatre workshop at the University of New Mexico.

Attendance for last week was 857 with a sellout crowd Saturday night. This was about 70 less than for the week previous, but Mr. Yell said the total attendance was well above that of last year.

Artificial Snow Grounds Hornets

LONACONING — Aaron M. "Moe" Mowbray discovered the other day that he could get rid of two nests of hornets with artificial snow.

Hornets had been making pests of themselves where Mr. Mowbray is building his new home on Jackson Street. He found that artificial snow sprayed on the hornets weighed them down so much that they dropped to the ground.

West Virginia Board Will Release Funds

Moorefield Lab One Of Projects

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Board of Public Works convenes in a special session Monday and it is expected to release funds to various agencies for 23 projects set up by the 1958 Legislature.

An informal opinion issued last week by the state attorney general's office stymied the board's plan to hold up release of the funds until at least next month when reports will be available on August tax receipts.

The attorney general said that wording of the budget provision made it mandatory that the money be released upon request of the agency designated to spend it.

The legislator added the projects to the 1958-59 budget, listing them in order of priority. They stipulated that they should be carried out provided the surplus at the close of the fiscal year last June 30 exceeded $1,804,618. This amount had been incorporated into regular appropriations for the 1958-59 year.

State Finance Director George Vieweg reported to the board last Wednesday that the budget surplus amounted to more than $4,000,000. However, some members felt the special funds should not be released until it was determined whether current revenue is meeting estimates made last February when the 1958-59 budget was adopted.

Items already requested include a new poultry laboratory at Moorefield, farm market facilities at Beckley, and completion of athletic fields at Concord and Shepherd State Colleges.

The State Conservation Commission has 17 projects on the priority list which would require $719,000. These include improvements at Panther State Forest, McDowell County, $74,000 and construction of an amphitheater at Grandview State Park near Beckley, $50,000.

Committees Named For KC Outing

Committees have been named to take charge of the annual corn and wiener roast and dance being sponsored on Sunday at Mt. Calvary picnic grounds by Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus.

General chairmen are William McCleary, Bruce White, Thomas Simons and Val Lydinger.

Corn and wieners will be served from 6 p. m. to 9 p. m. and dancing will follow.

John Carney will be in charge of the corn and will be assisted by Donald Hardin, Kenneth Gray and Harold Shober. George Pratt, Richard Grabenstein and John Rippilo will be in charge of the kitchen.

Jack Rorick will handle admissions, while Joseph McFarland will be in charge of parking. Thomas Farrell, John O'Rourke and James Connelly will be in charge of refreshments.

In charge of games will be Frank Werner, Robert Morris, John Loibel Sr., Norman Chiridon, John Vocke and John Loibel Jr.

Valley Newspaper Starts Campaign

LONACONING—A subscription campaign for "The Shield," Valley High School's newspaper, received its kick-off the other day when Miss Mary M. Sterbutzel, journalism faculty adviser, met with Judy Moffatt and Sandra Jones, the co-editors.

The first of the five issues for the school year is planned for soon after the opening of school.

Legislators Open Special Two-Day Talks

Bean Requests Police Probe

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The Legislature's interim committees on Government and Finance and Interstate Cooperation open a two-day meeting Monday.

Included on the agenda of the committees is a report on water resources in West Virginia and an outline of powers of the State Water Commission.

Further testimony also will be heard by the group on a continuing investigation of the Public Service Commission and possible revision of the state's tax on transportation.

The joint committee on Government and Finance also has a full agenda of its own. It is scheduled to hear from Legislative Auditor C. H. Koonitz on finances of the State Road Commission; a subcommittee headed by State Senate President Ralph J. Bean (D-Har-dy) on last week's investigation of Hopemont Sanitarium, and another subcommittee on its recent visit to Morris Memorial Hospital at Milton which had been offered to the state.

Bean also announced recently that Col. Hazen H. Fair, Superintendent of the State Police, and a former State Police Sgt. E. D. Bazzie, of Princeton, would appear before the committee on Government and Finance in addition to other members of the Department of Public Safety.

Bean called for a review of State Police laws at the group's last meeting July 15 following a protest by a Bluefield resident on the transfer, demotion and subsequent retirement of Bazzie, a veteran member of the Department of Public Safety.

An Ancient And Urgent Problem

"Water, water everywhere and each drop fit to drink" could be in the not too distant future the joyous refrain of all peoples along the shores of the Seven Seas. That day will come when salt water, now convertible to fresh only at considerable expense (15 to 20 cents a 100 gallons) will yield fresh water by relatively inexpensive processes.

"The ancient problem . . . of the desalting of water," President Eisenhower told the U. N. General Assembly in his speech August 13, "is on the threshold of solution." That solution could mean as much to the world, could revolutionize the old ways of national life as radically, as did the splitting of the atom.

It isn't only poverty-stricken desert lands that stand to benefit by cheap fresh water from salt. In the United States and other industrial countries a serious shortage of water is threatened, not only for human consumption but also for industrial production.

In 1952 Congress appropriated funds for studying various methods of desalting sea water, also the brackish water found in some inland states. Among the many methods studied are the electric membrane (electrolysis), vapor compression distillation, solar distillation, critical pressure, osmosis, solvent extraction, freezing.

Now the various studies have progressed to the point where the 1958 session of Congress voted $10 million to build and operate, under Interior Department supervision, five demonstration plants to test out the various methods. The Soviet Union is known to be competing with this country in the race to offer — for instance, to the Middle East — an economically feasible process of deriving fresh from salt water.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

What's In A Name?

Most names come to people from their ancestors and represent the continuity of heredity. It is normal for one to be proud of his inheritance unless his ancestors committed outrages against society. Sometimes men change their names because they are ugly or have a miserable connotation in English or are unpronounceable, but the change, let us say, from Nieschewski to Bancroft is a misrepresentation of personality. Of course, if one lives in a community where prejudice of all kinds prevails, it might be regarded as advisable to Americanize a name to avoid the "stigma" of European origin, or if one wishes to join a Christian church, it may be preferable to be known as King rather than as Cohn.

These are questions of taste and no person need suffer opprobrium for his taste. Nevertheless, when one has a very distinguished ancestry, it does cause wonder when a name is abandoned. Few American citizens have Cabinet members and ambassadors in their heritage.

Yet, the news was widely printed that Percy S. Straus Jr., a lawyer of Houston, Texas, has changed his name and the names of all his children. One explanation was that a son hoped to make a position for himself in the scientific world and apparently the name was regarded as a handicap, although Lewis L. Strauss, no relation, headed for many years the Atomic Energy Commission and Albert Einstein became the greatest name in the scientific world. Einstein could, of course, have changed his name to Smith, but would he have gained greater fame as Smith?

Lazarus Straus came to the United States from Bavaria in 1854 and first settled in Talbotton, Georgia. He founded a crockery business in Columbus, Georgia, about a century ago. After the Civil War, in 1866, Lazarus Straus came to New York where he entered the same business, establishing what are nowadays called concessions in department stores; he also retained a separate crockery and glassware business known as L. Straus & Sons. Out of this grew the great department store known as Macy's, and an interest in the Abraham & Straus department store in Brooklyn, and subsequently a chain of great businesses.

Lazarus Straus had three sons, Nathan, Isidor and Oscar, men of unusual distinction. Nathan throughout his life was known as a philanthropist, a fighter for causes. He, it was, who fought the battle for the pasteurization of milk and won it. To Nathan's heirs remained the original business which has become Straus-Duparquet, Inc., which outfitted the galley of the "Nautilus." Isidor Straus was the outstanding merchant whose genius built Macy's into the leading department store in the world.

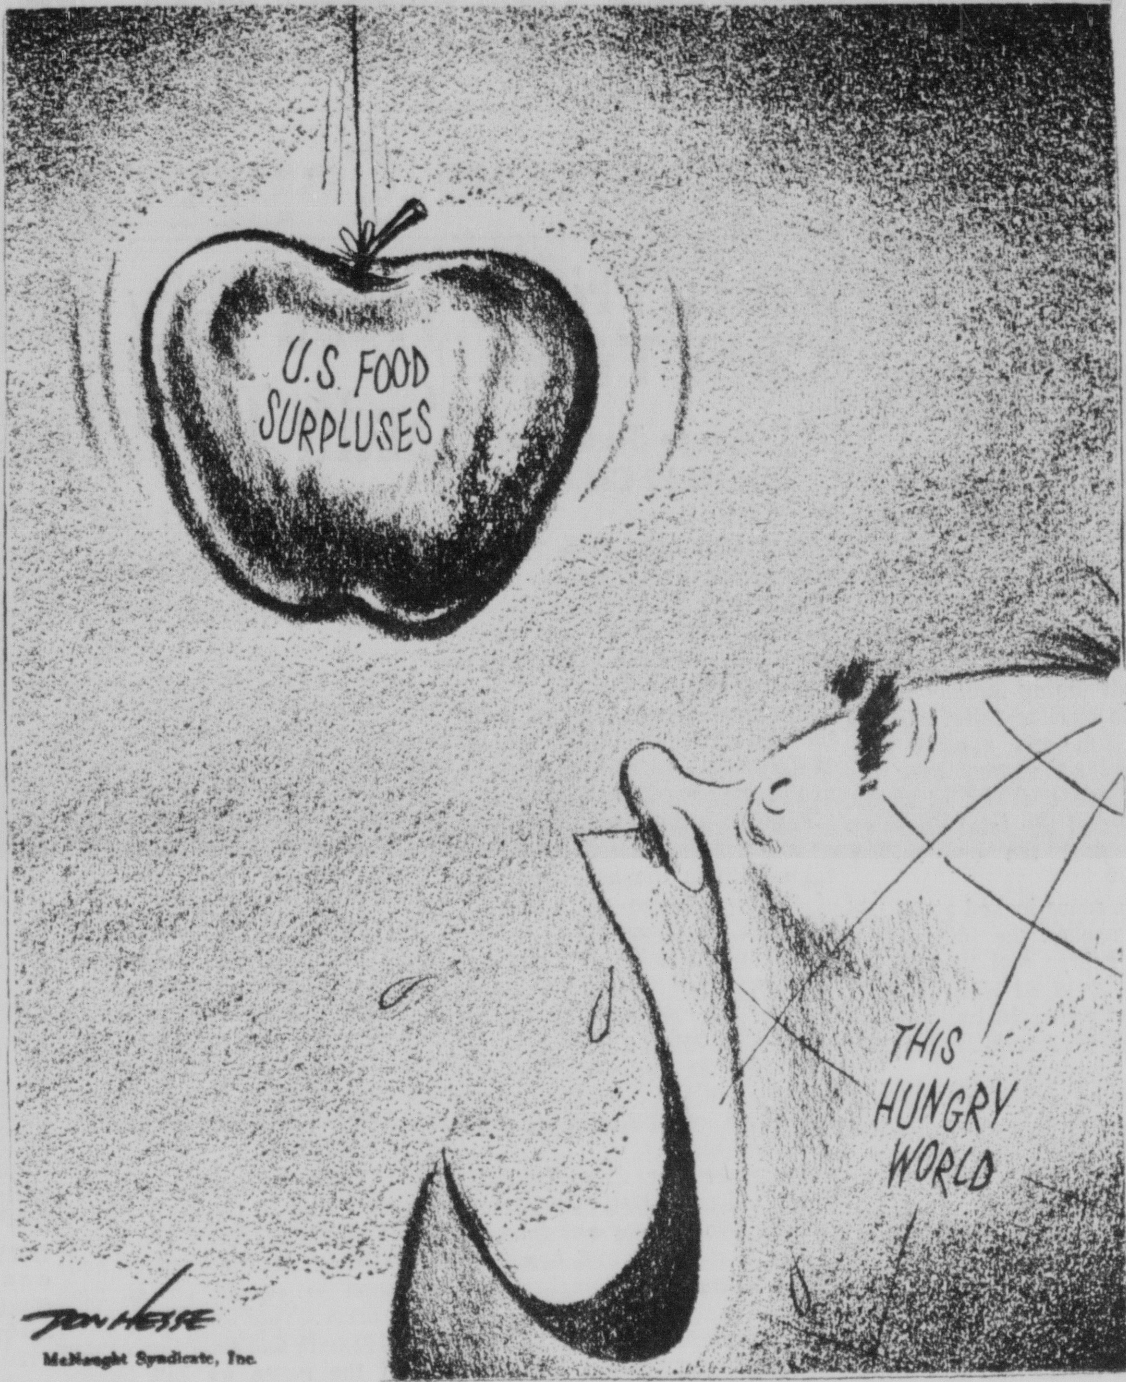

Oscar went into public life. He was graduated from Columbia University and was a lawyer. He was Minister to Turkey and a member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration at The Hague, filling out the term of former President Harrison. He was reappointed to The Hague position by Presidents Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson. He served as a member of President Roosevelt's Cabinet in the then comparatively new position of Secretary of Commerce and Labor and ended his public career as Ambassador to Turkey. Oscar Straus was the author of a number of important books in law and diplomacy.

The Straus brothers have always been regarded as among those men in American Jewry of whom all Jews were most proud. It was not their wealth that was so important as their very significant contributions to American life. Isidor Straus created an entirely new concept of merchandising which has come down to us today in the great efficiencies and savings of the large department and chain stores. Selling strictly for cash, he gave the purchaser interest on his money to the tune of a six per cent saving and although many found the notion quaint, it was natural that he should have thought of it because he was a believer in sound money and devoted himself to movements for economic stabilization.

Isidor was also a philanthropist and went in strongly for the Americanization of the newer Jewish immigrants. For many years, he was president of the Educational Alliance, a settlement house then devoted to this cause.

The Houston, Texas, Strauses will now be known as Seldens, which is strictly their business. But the newspaper account of their venture in names will cause many to recall the three brothers, Nathan, Isidor and Oscar Straus who were such sterling Americans.

Justices Urge Supreme Court To Use Restraint

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The Chief Justices of the highest court in each of ten states—seven of them in the North — have issued the most penetrating criticism of the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States that has emanated from any source in recent years.

Coming as it does at the very time when the Senate and the House here have been debating whether to pass laws to restrict the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court and in some instances to reverse some of the points on which the court has erroneously interpreted the intent of Congress, the wording of the document is of more than passing interest.

The report of the Committee on State-Federal Relationships was made public at Pasadena, California, where the annual meetings of the Conference of Chief Justices and of the American Bar Association are being held. The Chief Justices of Massachusetts, New York State, Michigan, Wisconsin, Oregon, Minnesota and Maryland can hardly be charged with a "Southern bias." Indeed, the report of the Chief Justices did not mention the "segregation" issue at all but dealt solely with the abuse of the right of the states by the Supreme Court of the United States. The document says in part:

"We are now concerned specifically with the effect of judicial decisions upon the relations between the federal government and the state governments. Here we think that the over-all tendency of decisions of the Supreme Court over the last 25 years or more has been to press the extension of federal power and to press it rapidly.

"There have been, of course, and still are very considerable differences within the court on these matters, and there has been quite recently a growing recognition of the fact that our government is still a federal government and that the historic line which experience seems to justify between matters primarily of national concern and matters primarily of local concern should not be hastily or lightly obliterated. A number of justices have repeatedly demonstrated their awareness of problems of federalism and their recognition that federalism is still a living part of our system of government. . .

"We believe that, in the fields with which we are concerned and as to which we feel entitled to speak, the Supreme Court too often has tended to adopt the role of policy maker without proper judicial restraint. We feel this is particularly the case in both of the great fields we have discussed — namely, the extent and extension of the federal power, and the supervision of state action by the Supreme Court by virtue of the Fourteenth Amendment. In the light of the immense power of the Supreme Court and its practical nonreviewability in most instances, no more important obligation rests upon it, in our view, than that of careful moderation in the exercise of its policy-making role.

"We are not alone in our view that the court, in many cases arising under the Fourteenth Amendment, has assumed what seem to us primarily legislative powers. See Judge Learned Hand on the Bill of Rights. We do not believe that either the framers of the original Constitution or the possibly somewhat less gifted draftsmen of the Fourteenth Amendment ever contemplated that the Supreme Court would, or should, have the almost unlimited — policy-making powers which it now exercises.

"It is strange, indeed, to reflect that, under a Constitution which provides for a system of checks and balances and of distribution of power between national and state governments, one branch of one government — the Supreme Court — should attain the immense and, in many respects, dominant power which it now wields. . .

"It has long been an American boast that we have a government of laws and not of men. We believe that any study of recent decisions of the Supreme Court will raise at least considerable doubt as to the validity of that boast. We find first that, in Constitutional cases, unanimous decisions are comparative rarities and that multiple opinions, concurring or dissenting, are common occurrences.

"We find next that divisions in result on a 5-to-4 basis are quite frequent. We find further that, on some occasions, a majority of the court cannot be mustered in support of any one opinion and that the result of a given case may come from the divergent views of individual justices who happen to unite on one outcome or the other of the case before the court. . .

" . . . It seems strange that, under a Constitutional doctrine which requires all others to recognize the Supreme Court's rulings

Big league managers have had a tougher year than an Arkansas frog wondering what became of the pond.

But it's been all right for Casey Stengel who was born with a silver spoon in his kisser. And traded it for a ladle.

And it's been kayo for Ed Sawyer who went from the Little Leaguers to the Biggies. When you talk of success put in a book-mark for Ed.

Ed isn't setting the world on fire. But he has a nice piece of burned toast.

When you're ten games out of first place you are counting the telegraph poles from the caboose. The Braves once made up fourteen in 1914. They didn't have little Leagues then.

One thing you can put your bingo buttons on. Every year four out of eight managers are up for bids. If you don't finish in the first division you can wear your hat in the shower-bath. You're on your way.

It's a tough racket but every manager knows it like you know the taste of your teeth. And they wouldn't be doing anything else.

Republicans Grooming Rockefeller To Sidetrack Nixon In '60 Election

By Drew Pearson

If the American people had been told fifty years ago that an offspring of John D. Rockefeller would aim for the governorship of New York, they would think they were dreaming. Or if they had been told that the son of Wall Street railroad speculator Edward H. Harriman would become Governor of New York, they would have been equally incredulous.

Both of the old gentlemen were highbinders who trod ruthlessly on the public interest and were hated in return. John D. Rockefeller, founder of the Standard Oil empire, pioneered the practice of buying up pipelines so that no oil men could sell unless they sold through Rockefeller. Since he controlled the pipelines, he fixed the price.

The name Rockefeller was cursed all through the West, and the laws which some oil men now want to change were put on the statute books in order to prevent the cutthroat tactics of the man whose grandson is now running for Governor of New York.

Contemporary with the elder John D., another highbinder named Harriman was busy gobbling up, not pipelines, but railroads. He got control of the Union Pacific, and then plunged into a race with James J. Hill for control of the Northern Pacific, which led to the most serious crash then known on Wall Street. Teddy Roosevelt, who also blasted John D. Rockefeller, called him the greatest wrecker of American business.

How They Changed

Today Harriman's son is Governor of New York and Rockefeller's grandson is running for Governor of New York.

In fifty years they have reversed public opinion. Both did it by dedicating their lives to public service. And the American people, who don't hold the sins of a father against his son, have forgiven the past.

Averell Harriman, still the largest stockholder in the Union Pacific, has spent twenty years working for the government. As Secretary of Commerce, Ambassador to England, Ambassador to Russia, head of Mutual Aid, he became one of the most experienced public servants of this generation. He has charted his course not by his father but by his grandfather, a famous Episcopalian minister.

The Rockefeller family, fifty years ago, got tired of being hated and hired Ivy Lee as public relations adviser. He advised them to do good in the world and public relations would take care of itself. They have been following his advice. The Rockefellers have been giving away their millions—to colleges, hospitals, for medical research, national parks, and the improvement of the Good Neighbor Policy in Latin America.

Nelson is sincere, idealistic, public-spirited, hasn't had as much governmental experience as Averell Harriman, and, paradoxically, is a friend of Harriman's. Both were brought into the New Deal by Harry Hopkins.

The odds will be on Harriman. But Rockefeller will give him the fight of his life. Either way, New York will have a good governor. But riding behind Nelson in the race will be backers who are grooming a new jockey to pilot the Republican party toward the White House in 1960.

New Publisher

A New York newspaper with Republican roots going back to Civil War days is about to change hands — the New York Herald Tribune.

Famous in the days of Horace Greeley, and continued by another great newspaperman, Whitelaw Reid, the Tribune, after merging with the Herald, has been published in later years by Mrs. Helen Reid and her sons.

But the high price of newsprint and labor, plus the advertising inroads of television, have hit the Herald Tribune; so some months ago, John Hay Whitney purchased a large enough share to give him control.

That control will soon pass into his hands.

Whitney, now U. S. Ambassador in London, cut his teeth on government service under Roosevelt during the war. It was Harry Hopkins and Nelson Rockefeller who brought him into the New Deal, where he was assistant to Rockefeller in the office of Pan American cultural relations.

As Ambassador to London he has been astute in advising the State Department and popular with the British public. He married Betsy Cushing, former wife of Congressman James Roosevelt, is the brother-in-law of William Paley, head of the Columbia Broadcasting System, and owns four TV stations of his own.

As the grandson of a Secretary of State, John S. Hay, Ambassador Whitney has a slight gripe against another grandson of another Secretary of State. When John Foster Dulles, grandson of John Foster, comes to London, he seldom consults Whitney.

The city hasn't changed. I have. . .

The skyline is the same broken saw. Beneath the lobby of the Waldorf-Astoria, Mr. Frank Costello leans back in the barber chair and closes his eyes to the tender rubbing of the lather. High above the lobby, the President of the United States confers with Mr. Cabot Lodge. Across Lexington Avenue, a man leans against a store window and holds a hat in front of him. The sign on his chest says: "I am blind."

The screech of the elevated trains is gone. Today, there is the snort of the buses. The pretty girls still carry big hat boxes. The jewelers close a three-day convention with a cocktail party that continues on into the small hours. In the Hawaiian Room at the Lexington, a beautiful Chinese girl shows two couples from Canton, Ohio to a front row table where the husbands will watch the swaying grass skirts and the wives will watch the husbands.

Around the corner in Loew's, "God's Little Acre" plays its dirty little story. A squad car cruises across 51st to Fifth, both cops raising their caps as they pass St. Patrick's. In the Belmont, a lady continues to sit alone at the bar after the bartender tells her that ladies cannot sit alone at the bar. A drunk, piloted along Third Avenue by a girl with glasses, tears loose to turn slowly around to stare at a blonde.

Over on Varick, boys pitch pennies across a sidewalk against a doorkill. Around the corner, their fathers shoot craps in a garage, bouncing the cubes off the wall. A bookie in a candy store says "Don't worry about the bet. I'll memorize it. I can't be found with any more slips in my pocket."

Stout women are looking in Klein's window at 9 p. m. and, in Chinatown, the men sit on tiny stoops watching their children play in the street. The skyscrapers of Wall Street look like king-sized candles; the scrubwomen have taken over. A waning moon catches the silver of a plane out of LaGuardia Field, and lets it go. At the Palace Theatre, "The Bridge on the River Kwai" plays and plays and plays.

Once, this city rang to gunfire and men bled to death in muddy gutters. Once it heard the hoarse shout of Texas Guinan and the cool assurance of Larry Fay and Big Frenchy and the sunde tongue of Owney Madden. Once, Richard Bennett read a Bible for 20 minutes in a nightclub and sat down to a thunderous ovation. Once, six boys killed a cop for $5.40 in nickels. A spender named Ryder gave $1,000 to a band-leader to play his favorite song. A man in a snap-brim hat was the mayor and he could do a soft-shoe routine and make a speech and fall in love with the wrong woman. After 3 a. m. the people of this city sat in Harlem cellars drinking gin and eating fried chicken. Once. Once. Once. . .

Some of the things "are" the same. The subways still roar; the people still run; the sky over Brooklyn still blushes pink at 5 a. m. The cabs honk; the newspaper trucks stand in the middle of the street; the late Lazy Susans still give a man a tentative smile. At 8:45 a. m. somebody squeezes the subway toothpaste tube and people squirt out.

Most of the playboys are dead or they live up in Connecticut watering geraniums. Nicky Blair is still around. And Toots Shor, and Bill Corum. Some, like Jay Faggen and Jimmy Durante, are in California eating oranges and watching their weight. The faces around town are new; the antics are old. When I meet someone from the Prohibition days, he cannot remember anything that happened since 1933.

The copy boys are all bald editors. The bus boys who used to park a car as a favor, now own little hideaways and employ press agents. The beautiful girls who once melt me with a glance, could once melt me with a glance all have baritone voices.

Once, a columnist stood with bared head in the rain watching some men carry a casket into a house. He was told later that it was the daily delivery of ooze. Once, a man walked across Times Square ten stories up on a slack wire. Once, Kid Griffo stood in the Rialto alley and offered ten dollars to anyone who could knock him off a handkerchief.

The city hasn't changed. I have. . .

Mr. Google knew that his son was the weakest, scrawniest, clumsiest kid on the block, so he was particularly gratified to learn that the boy had been elected president of the club.

"Our son must show unexpected qualities of leadership," he boasted to his wife, but the boy next door soon disillusioned him. "It was like this, Mr. Google," said the boy. "We couldn't make your son John secretary, cause he doesn't write good enough.

Treasurer wouldn't do; he can't count money. He's too skinny for sergeant-at-arms. And everybody in the club has to have some title — so we made him president!"

An Ancient And Urgent Problem

"Water, water everywhere and each drop fit to drink" could be in the not too distant future the joyous refrain of all peoples along the shores of the Seven Seas. That day will come when salt water, now convertible to fresh only at considerable expense (15 to 20 cents a 100 gallons) will yield fresh water by relatively inexpensive processes.

"The ancient problem . . . of the desalting of water," President Eisenhower told the U. N. General Assembly in his speech August 13, "is on the threshold of solution." That solution could mean as much to the world, could revolutionize the old ways of national life as radically, as did the splitting of the atom.

It isn't only poverty-stricken desert lands that stand to benefit by cheap fresh water from salt. In the United States and other industrial countries a serious shortage of water is threatened, not only for human consumption but also for industrial production.

In 1952 Congress appropriated funds for studying various methods of desalting sea water, also the brackish water found in some inland states. Among the many methods studied are the electric membrane (electrolysis), vapor compression distillation, solar distillation, critical pressure, osmosis, solvent extraction, freezing.

Now the various studies have progressed to the point where the 1958 session of Congress voted $10 million to build and operate, under Interior Department supervision, five demonstration plants to test out the various methods. The Soviet Union is known to be competing with this country in the race to offer—for instance, to the Middle East—an economically feasible process of deriving fresh from salt water.

These Days

What's In A Name?

Most names come to people from their ancestors and represent the continuity of heredity. It is normal for one to be proud of his inheritance unless his ancestors committed outrages against society. Sometimes men change their names because they are ugly or have a miserable connotation in English or are unpronounceable, but the change, let us say, from Nieschewski to Bancroft is a misrepresentation of personality. Of course, if one lives in a community where prejudice of all kinds prevails, it might be regarded as advisable to Americanize a name to avoid the "stigma" of European origin, or if one wishes to join a Christian church, it may be preferable to be known as King rather than as Cohn.

These are questions of taste and no person need suffer opprobrium for his taste. Nevertheless, when one has a very distinguished ancestry, it does cause wonder when a name is abandoned. Few American citizens have Cabinet members and ambassadors in their heritage.

Yet, the news was widely printed that Percy S. Straus Jr., a lawyer of Houston, Texas, has changed his name and the names of all his children. One explanation was that a son hoped to make a position for himself in the scientific world and apparently the name was regarded as a handicap, although Lewis L. Straus, no relation, headed for many years the Atomic Energy Commission and Albert Einstein became the greatest name in the scientific world. Einstein could, of course, have changed his name to Smith, but would he have gained greater fame as Smith?

Lazarus Straus came to the United States from Bavaria in 1834 and first settled in Talbotton, Georgia. He founded a crockery business in Columbus, Georgia, about a century ago. After the Civil War, in 1866, Lazarus Straus came to New York where he entered the same business, establishing what are nowadays called concessions in department stores; he also retained a separate crockery and glassware business known as L. Straus & Sons. Out of this grew the great department store known as Macy's, and an interest in the Abraham & Straus department store in Brooklyn, and subsequently a chain of great businesses.

Lazarus Straus had three sons, Nathan, Isidor and Oscar, men of unusual distinction. Nathan throughout his life was known as a philanthropist, a fighter for causes. He, it was, who fought the battle for the pasteurization of milk and won it. To Nathan's heirs remained the original business which has become Straus-Duparquet, Inc., which outfitted the galley of the "Nautilus." Isidor Straus was the outstanding merchant whose genius built Macy's into the leading department store in the world.

Oscar went into public life. He was graduated from Columbia University and was a lawyer. He was Minister to Turkey and a member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration at The Hague, filling out the term of former President Harrison. He was reappointed to The Hague position by Presidents Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson. He served as a member of President Roosevelt's Cabinet in the then comparatively new position of Secretary of Commerce and Labor and ended his public career as Ambassador to Turkey. Oscar Straus was the author of a number of important books in law and diplomacy.

The Straus brothers have always been regarded as among those men in American Jewry of whom all Jews were most proud. It was not their wealth that was so important as their very significant contributions to American life. Isidor Straus created an entirely new concept of merchandising which has come down to us today in the great efficiencies and savings of the large department and chain stores. Selling strictly for cash, he gave the purchaser interest on his money to the tune of a six per cent saving and although many found the notion quaint, it was natural that he should have thought of it because he was a believer in sound money and devoted himself to movements for economic stabilization.

Isidor was also a philanthropist and went in strongly for the Americanization of the newer Jewish immigrants. For many years, he was president of the Educational Alliance, a settlement house then devoted to this cause.

The Houston, Texas, Strauses will now be known as Seldens, which is strictly their business. But the newspaper account of their venture in names will cause many to recall the three brothers, Nathan, Isidor and Oscar Straus who were such sterling Americans.

Justices Urge Supreme Court To Use Restraint

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The Chief Justices of the highest court in each of ten states—seven of them in the North—have issued the most penetrating criticism of the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States that has emanated from any source in recent years.

Coming as it does at the very time when the Senate and the House here have been debating whether to pass laws to restrict the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court and in some instances to reverse some of the points on which the court has erroneously interpreted the intent of Congress, the wording of the document is of more than passing interest.

The report of the Committee on State-Federal Relationships was made public at Pasadena, California, where the annual meetings of the Conference of Chief Justices and of the American Bar Association are being held. The Chief Justices of Massachusetts, New York State, Michigan, Wisconsin, Oregon, Minnesota and Maryland can hardly be charged with a "Southern bias." Children Need Early, Regular Dental Care

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A child should be taken to the dentist before he is 5 years old—and sooner if cavities and other irregularities develop. Thereafter, a regular schedule can be arranged to encourage the youngster to care for his teeth.

There are many advantages to early dental care. The temporary teeth are important and must be maintained as long as possible to insure proper spacing for the permanent set. In addition, sound and clean teeth assist in preventing diseases of the mouth.

The teeth should last a lifetime. Most of the damage is done during childhood and the earlier the youngster learns dental hygiene the less trouble he is likely to have in the future. Parents must see to it that cavities are repaired.

The person who inherits good enamel has a strong dental foundation. The caries prone child is less fortunate because conditions in the mouth are ripe for cavity formation. More bacteria are present and the enamel is susceptible to erosion. These young ones will benefit from fluorine, provided they are exposed to the chemical before the eighth birthday. Avoiding sweets and brushing the teeth regularly will do the rest.

At least 90 per cent of all baby teeth are subject to decay. This condition is responsible for toothache, and when chewing is affected the tot may suffer from malnutrition. Halitosis is common and gum disease may follow lowered resistance to infection. It is questionable whether infected teeth cause systemic disease.

When the first teeth decay early and fall out, the second set may be forced to grow out of line. The result is crooked teeth, an improper bite, and an inferiority complex.

Republicans Grooming Rockefeller To Sidetrack Nixon In '60 Election

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—There's a lot more than meets the eye behind the Republican state convention meeting in Rochester this week. Not all the delegates who attend will know it, but they are grooming a man who may challenge Vice President Nixon for the presidential nomination in 1960—Nelson Rockefeller.

Six months ago, certain bigwigs who make the wheels go round in the Republican party decided that Nixon had a lot of defects in his political background and they should start looking ahead. They remembered Stassen's spur-of-the-moment stop-Nixon campaign as too hurriedly thrown together; so they decided to begin early.

Nixon, they figured, could never entirely live down the $18,000 personal expense fund nor his oscillation back and forth between Taft Republicanism and Eisenhower Republicanism.

Thus was born the plan to run Nelson Rockefeller for Governor of New York—a springboard which has sent more men to the White House than any other public post.

Rockefeller has never run for office in his life. But gradually GOP candidates steeped in New York politics—Oswald Heck, Speaker of the New York Assembly; State Senator Walter Mahoney; Leonard Hall, ex-Chairman of the Republican Committee—dropped out of the race. Skillful, unseen hands were at work. Result: A bandwagon rush to Rockefeller.

If the American people had been told fifty years ago that an offspring of John D. Rockefeller would aim for the governorship of New York, they would think they were dreaming. Or if they had been told that the son of Wall Street railroad speculator Edward H. Harriman would become Governor of New York, they would have been equally incredulous.

Once, six boys killed a cop for $5.40 in nickels. A spender named Ryder gave $1,000 to a bandleader to play his favorite song. A man in a snap-brim hat was the mayor and he could do a soft-shoe routine and make a speech and fall in love with the wrong woman. After 3 a. m. the people of this city sat in Harlem cellars drinking gin and eating fried chicken. Once. Once. Once. . .

Some of the things are the same. The subways still roar; the people still run; the sky over Brooklyn still blushes pink at 5 a. m. The cabs honk; the newspaper trucks stand in the middle of the street; the late Lazy Susans still give a man a tentative smile. At 8:45 a. m., somebody squeezes the subway toothpaste tube and people squirt out.

Most of the playboys are dead or they live up in Connecticut watering geraniums. Nicky Blair is still around. And Toots Shor. And Bill Corum. Some, like Jay Faggen and Jimmy Durante, are in California eating oranges and watching their weight. The faces around town are new; the antics are old. When I meet someone from the Prohibition days, he cannot remember anything that happened since 1933.

The copy boys are all bald editors. The bus boys who used to park a car as a favor, now own little hideaways and employ press agents. The beautiful girls who once melt me with a glance, could once melt me with a glance all have baritone voices.

Once, a columnist stood with bared head in the rain watching some men carry a casket into a house. He was told later that it was the daily delivery of nooze. Once, a man walked across Times Square ten stories up on a slack wire. Once, Kid Griffo stood in the Rialto alley and offered ten dollars to anyone who could knock him off a handkerchief.

The city hasn't changed. I have. . .

Pirates Split With St. Louis; Braves Triumph, 8-5

Cards Score Five in 8th For 12-8 Win

Musial Sparks 2nd Game Rally; Friend Notches 17th, 8-4

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—A five-run eighth inning rally started by Stan Musial as a pinch-hitter, gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 12-8 victory and a split in their doubleheader with the Pittsburgh Pirates Sunday. The Pirates took the first game 8-4.

The Cards were trailing, 8-7, when manager Fred Hutchinson called on Musial, sitting out the second game, to lead off the eighth.

Stan Sparks Rally
Musial promptly singled and pulled up at second on Curt Flood's hit. Pinch-hitter Hal Smith was intentionally passed to lead the bases and Frank Thomas then threw high to home plate on Don Blasingame's ground ball to permit Musial and Flood to score.

Irv Noren singled to bring home pinch-runner Eddie Kasko, Joe Cunningham singled to score Blasingame and Noren was run down between third and home on Ken Boyer's single off Elroy Face who relieved Don Gross.

But Gene Green doubled to score the final run.

The game was a wild and woolly affair throughout.

The Pirates teed off on starter Bob Mabe with two runs in the first on Bill Virdon's seventh home run and Roman Mejias' fifth.

Dick Stuart drove in another with a double in the third and scored the fourth run on Thomas' single.

The Cards bounced back to tie in their half of the third in which Boyer's 22nd homer was a three-run blow. They took a 7-4 lead in the fourth with three runs when Blasingame hit his second homer for two tallies.

Stuart moved the Pirates closer in the fifth with a solo homer, his 12th, and Pittsburgh took the lead with a three-run blast in the seventh off Jim Brosnan, the eventual winner.

Brosnan's lucky triumph gave him a 9-7 record for the season. Bucs Hit Timely

The Pirates put on a display of timely hitting in the first game, wasting only three of their 11 safeties. Bill Mazeroski and Hank Folles drove in two runs apiece to lead the attack as Vinegar Bend Mizell was chased in a two-run first inning and a four-run third.

Bob Friend, who was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the eighth when the Pirates scored their final run, picked up his 17th win. He has lost 13.

Wally Moon and Ken Boyer hit their fifth and 21st home runs for the Cards but each was good for only one run.

Yankees Acquisition Of Dickson Stirs Wrath Of Kansas City Fans

Feel Murry Could Have Helped A's Into 1st Division

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The wrath of baseball fans rose again here this week-end over the latest Kansas City-New York deal sending Murry Dickson to the Yankees.

The 42-year-old knuckleball pitcher, picked up as a free agent last winter, had become a Kansas City hero. He has been the A's most consistent pitcher, working both as a starter and in relief. His very appearance was cheered to the echo. The 145-pound righthander had won nine games, lost five and saved several more for faltering mounds-men.

Most of the criticism of the latest of owner Arnold Johnson's moves centers around the fact the Athletics have a chance to get into the first division for the first time since the club came to Kansas City in 1955. Losing a pitcher of Dickson's caliber without an immediate replacement, they contend, is a blow from which the A's probably can't recover.

A spokesman said Dickson was sent to the Yanks on waivers but the A's would receive a "satisfactory player" next spring, plus cash.

Snead Is Victor At Sistersville
SISTERSVILLE, W. Va. (UPI)—Slammin' Sam Snead shot a sizzling three-under par 65 in the morning round and then capped that with a 70 Sunday afternoon to win the West Virginia PGA crown.

Playing in a steady downpour of rain, the White Sulphur Springs pro birdied the second, third and ninth holes in the first 18 holes on the Sistersville Country Club course.

His two-round score of 135 gave him a total of 270 strokes for the 72-hole tournament, five better than defending champion George Hoffer of Huntington.

Charleston's Buddy Viar, who was tied with Sam over the first two rounds, slipped badly in the morning round for an eight-over par 76 and finished in fourth place with a 278.

Joe Taylor, also of Charleston and winner of the PGA crown four of the past five years, was third with a 277 on the sodden course.

Aaron Sinks Giants With 2-Run Homer

Tenth Inning Belt Beats Worthington; Bob Rush Standout

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Hank Aaron smashed a two-run homer in the 10th inning Sunday to climax some sterling relief pitching by Bob Rush and assured Milwaukee an 8-5 victory over the Giants before a crowd of 22,913, which boosted the total home attendance past the one million mark.

With the score locked at 5-5, Ed Mathews opened the 10th with a single to center and then Aaron tied into one of Al Worthington's pitches and drove the ball into the left centerfield stands for his 28th homer of the season.

The Braves scored a third run during the 10th when Joe Adcock knocked Worthington out of the game with a double to left, and Johnny Logan singled off Marv Grissom to drive in the big first baseman. It was Worthington's sixth defeat.

Rush Pitching Star
The victory went to relief specialist Don McMahon, who registered his seventh win, but the real pitching hero was Rush, who hurled six innings of scoreless ball and retired the Giants in the eighth after they had loaded the bases. Then Rush went out for a pinch-hitter in the ninth.

The Giants threatened in the 10th when Mays opened with a single, but then pinch-hitter Ray Jablonski hit into a double-play and McMahon breezed a called third strike past Willie Kirkland to end it after Orlando Cepeda had walked.

Rush struck out seven and gave up one walk during his stint. He had set down 14 batters in a row before the Giants loaded the bases on him in the eighth with Leon Wagner, who had hit a two-run homer in the first, singling to start it off. Cepeda doubled him to third and Kirkland drew an intentional pass. Then Rush got Spencer on a called third strike for the second time and pinch-hitter Bob Speake fouled out to Aaron to kill the rally.

San Francisco tied it in its half of the second, then jumped out ahead, 5-4, on Cepeda's two-run double in the third. Aaron singled off Worthington in the fifth after Red Schoendienst had doubled to tie the score.

Pass Million Mark
Sunday's sell-out crowd boosted the year's turnout in small Seals Stadium to 1,010,456 for 60 home dates.

Father's Nickels Enticed Ernie Banks Into Baseball

DALLAS (P)—Ernie Banks, the Chicago Cub's star shortstop, has been a "pro" ever since he first picked up a baseball.

Ernie, who hit more home runs in a season than any other major league shortstop in history, got his start in the game here in Dallas.

His father, Eddie, now 64, was the reason, Eddie revealed how he used to give Ernie a nickel to play.

Ernie didn't care for baseball as a boy. He played football and basketball and ran on the track at Booker T. Washington High School here. The school, however, didn't have a baseball team.

In the spring Ernie would play softball. A scout for an Amarillo, Tex., Negro team saw him and decided he could play baseball. So, he offered Ernie a job and at 18 the youngster took it.

He did so well that the Kansas City Monarchs got him and eventually he was in the major leagues.

"I had to play many a nickel to play catch with me when he was a youngster," Eddie Banks, who once was a catcher in the Negro American League, recalled. Thus it was that Ernie was always a pro.

Banks was selected to play in this year's All-Star game. Those nickels apparently were well spent.

Shortstop Johnny Logan sat out the finale with the Los Angeles Dodgers because of an upset stomach. Seems he went deep sea fishing on the off-day Friday and became seasick.

Phils Trim Cubs Twice

CHICAGO (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies, getting some timely hitting from Ed Bouchee, Rip Repulski, Wally Post and Willie Jones, defeated the Chicago Cubs 13-8 and 5-3, Sunday.

The second game was called at the end of eight innings because of darkness, much to the displeasure of the crowd of 24,572.

Repulski's three-run pinch homer and a grand slammer by Bouchee—both in the seventh inning of the first game—were the big blows in the opener.

Bouchee's solo homer in the seventh inning of the second game and a four-run uprising in the eighth clinched the nightcap.

The double triumph pulled the Phils out of the National League cellar and left the faltering Cubs in eighth place.

Cub newcomer Jim Marshall, purchased from Baltimore Saturday, hit two homers and a single in the first game and came up with a homer and a single in the second.

Jack Sanford, who took over after Jack Anderson was lifted for a pinch batter in the seventh, was credited with his eighth victory against 11 losses in the second game.

Senators Up Lead

LOUISVILLE (UPI)—The Charleston Senators scored four runs in the top half of the ninth inning Sunday to post a 7-3 victory over the Colonels.

The triumph boosted the Senators' American Association lead to eight games over second-place Minneapolis which played at St. Paul in a night game.

Hits 100 3rd Time

Ace Pittsburgh Pirate right-hander, Bob Friend, hit the century-mark in strikeouts for the third consecutive year on August 16th at Cincinnati. Bob fanned four Redlegs to up his total to 101 for the year. In winning that game, Bob recorded his 16th win—and now stands an excellent chance of winning 20 games for the first time in his eight-year Pirate career. His best previous mark was his 17-17 record in 1956.

Dr. Harold C. Frostburg Is Named State Coach

South Dakota Man Succeeds C. W. Skinner

New Baseball, Cage Mentor Comes From Syracuse University

Dr. Harold J. Cordts, of Clark, South Dakota, is the new varsity basketball and baseball coach at Frostburg State Teachers College, according to announcement by R. Bowen Hardesty, president.

Dr. Cordts, who will teach classes in health and physical education for men, succeeds C. Waldon Skinner, of LaVale, who resigned his post at Frostburg to teach at Columbia University, New York City, after serving for three years as coach of Bobcat basketball and baseball teams.

The newly appointed mentor received his early education in the South Dakota public schools and was graduated from South Dakota State College at Brookings with bachelor of science and master of science degrees. He completed his work for the Doctor of Education degree at Syracuse (N.Y.) University this summer.

Dr. Cordts' teaching experience includes a year at the Turton Elementary School, Turton, S.D., and a year at the South Dakota School of Agriculture, Brookings, where he taught physical education to secondary school age boys.

While an undergraduate student at South Dakota State College, he was assistant freshman basketball coach and as a graduate student, he taught general physical education and was athletic trainer for all sports.

For the past three years, Dr. Cordts has been an assistant instructor at Syracuse University and in addition to teaching physical education he has supervised student teachers in physical education in the public schools.

Dr. Cordts' military service with the U. S. Army included the Company Officers' Course at Fort Benning, Ga., physical training instructor at Camp Atterbury, Indiana, and foreign service in Japan and Korea.

Dr. and Mrs. Cordts will come to Frostburg this week and will reside at 97 Broadway.

Bears Whip Eagles, 3-0

Blanda's Field Goal Wins Exhibition Tilt

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—The Chicago Bears withstood a last-minute 80-yard drive sparked by Norm Van Brocklin to defeat the Philadelphia Eagles 3-0 Sunday as 12,000 professional football fans watched their second exhibition game of the season.

Chicago scored its second victory in handling Philadelphia its first loss when the Bears' George Blanda kicked a 19-yard field goal late in the second period.

A muddy field following an all-morning rain as well as a slippery ball prevented either team from getting a sustained drive under way until the final minutes.

Van Brocklin's passing and running matched the tossing of Bears quarterback Ed Brown in the third quarter, and almost produced a win three minutes before the finish.

Several runs, three Van Brocklin heaves and his concluding plunge advanced the ball 80 yards to the six-inch line with 30 seconds left. Van Brocklin carried again on the third down, losing a half yard. When halfback Ken Keller was stopped for no gain, the Bears took over 10 seconds before the final gun.

Chicago 0 3 0 0-3
Philadelphia 0 0 0 0-0

Scoring Summary: Chicago—Field goal, Blanda (19 yards).

Hambletonian Draw Is Scheduled Today; Race Set Wednesday

DUQUOIN, Ill. (AP)—A field of 15 to 18 trotters is expected to be named in Monday's draw for the 33rd Hambletonian.

With 15 tiering up for the sulky sport's Kentucky Derby Wednesday, the event would gross about $108,000, netting a record $63,504 for the winner. The record purse is $117,117 and the winning high is $63,126—both set in 1953 in Goshen, N.Y., when outsider Helicopter became the last filly to take the crown.

Speculation grew Sunday that Emily's Pride has the speed to become the 10th filly to take the premier event for 3-year-old trotters. Her greatest challenge may come from Sharpshooter, a small colt owned by Arden Homestead Stable of Goshen.

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Dorothy Manners

(While Louella O. Parsons is in Hawaii her column will be written by Dorothy Manners.)

HOLLYWOOD — The search for the third star for "Mr. Pharaoh and the Cleopatra" literally wound up at sea when director Don Weis and star Gilbert Roland finally caught up with Dina Merrill aboard a yacht in the Mediterranean.

The ship-to-shore telephone conversation ended with the heiress-model-actress (Dina's the daughter of Mrs. Merriweather Post May) promising to meet the company at Havana. Zsa Zsa Gabor is the other femme star.

Funny how this quest for Dina started. Gil Roland, browsing around in a Beverly Hills bookstore saw Dina's picture on the cover of this month's Town and Country Magazine, called Weis and said, "Dina's the girl you've been looking for. Now all you have to do is locate her."

With the unhappiness of her divorce from TV actor William Strange behind her, Carol Ohmart is concentrating on a career that's taking a big upsurge. She stands a good chance of landing the lead with John Wayne (and possibly Bill Holden) in "The Horse Soldiers." And she's definitely set as Vincent Price's lead.

ing lady in "The House on Haunted Hill," for Allied Artists. Carol started off with a tremendous publicity campaign at Paramount. Maybe it was too big a splurge because as pretty as Carol is, her pictures didn't live up to the whoopla. She was about willing to drop out of films at the time of her marriage to Strange. But with the marriage on the rocks, she wants to try again, this time on merit, not publicity.

Too bad that Mara Corday and Dick Long can't make a go of it. Their baby is expected next month.

He's looking for an apartment to establish separate residence while Mara continues to occupy the family home. I hear they've had several sessions with a family counselor hoping to save the marriage—but no go.

Dick's recently finished a TV film at Warners and goes into "The House on Haunted Hill" for Allied Artists.

Never let it be said that Andrea Martin (her agent just broke up her expected marriage to Western actor Ty Hardin), hasn't a sense of humor. She says the last time one of her romances fell apart, she was engaged to Bob Wasserman of Philadelphia, he made a bloomin' fortune in California real estate!

Wasserman came out here to be near Andrea last year and when they finally shelved marriage plans he was so mad he went around buying everything he could find in desert properties and cleaned up!

I don't know if this is any solace to Ty Hardin or not.

George Sidney and Roger Edens who had a successful splurge of musical comedy making when both were at MGM, have joined forces at Columbia to make "Here Comes the Brides." Alan Marcus' story deals with the funny idea of transplanting 100 widows from a town in Massachusetts to Seattle in the early days when Seattle had practically an all-male population. Gene Kelly's the boy they have in mind.

At MGM the team of Edens and Sidney made "Annie Get Your Gun," "The Harvey Girls" and "Showboat."

Where our Hollywood starlets wouldn't be caught dead without a swimming pool, Janette Scott, 19-year-old leading lady to Kirk Douglas, Burt Lancaster and Sir Laurence Olivier in "The Devil's Disciple" has a wishing well! She must have wished "well" because producer Harold Hecht is bringing her back to Hollywood for future pictures. She's never been to America before.

A letter from London describes Janette as "a sort of American Susan Strasberg. She was a famed child actress in British pictures who has matured to look like a cross between Esther Williams and Shirley Jones and she lives in a 400-year-old house in Buckinghamshire with her famed wishing well. It's her proudest possession."

Hollywood in shorts:

First social event attended by Kathy and Bing Crosby since the birth of their son was Daphne and George Cameron's cocktail soiree honoring recently wed Clark Hardwicke and Mary Jane McGrath. No, Bing and Kathy didn't show any baby pictures of Harry Lillis Crosby, III.

That surprise party the Columbia gang threw for Sam Briskin at Chasen's almost reached the riot stage after heckler-comedian Don Rickles arrived posing as an important exhibitor hating ALL Columbia pictures! Doesn't seem possible but Sam had never seen Rickles and almost had a stroke before catching on to the gag.

Bob Evans with Cathy Crosby, Steve Cochran with Cece Whitney, and Liberace tagging it—all at Ye Little Club to hear Christine Callas, who is packing them in nightly.

No matter what the doctor's verdict is—Hollywood will always believe that director Kurt Neumann died of a broken heart. He couldn't seem to pull himself together after the loss of his wife three weeks ago. He managed to complete "Return to King Solomon's Mines" at MGM, but even the sensational boxoffice success of "The Fly" meant little to him. Deepest sympathy to his doubly bereaved son and daughter.

The friends of Alexander Perino aren't too surprised that he's severed connections with the Gourmet Room at the Tropicana in Las Vegas.

The Ritz Bros. have signed a new five year deal with the Flamingo in Vegas. They always tear up the joint and all existing records.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

OUNCE OF PREVENTION
COSELEY, England (UPI)—Police at the station here, believing an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, have marked the desk copy of a book called "Crime Prevention" with large lettered words, "not to be taken away."

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Do-It-Yourself Beauty

You may wear a sleek fitted suit covered with the latest in chemise-line beach coats or a relaxed silhouette swimsuit that bypasses the waistline. But neither is a complete dodge for a faulty figure.

Perhaps it's best we have a bathing-suit season if for no other reason than to reveal how much we need figure improvement. If you're the girl who should have dieted and didn't—you'll benefit from regular exercises. And you can create your own figure right in your own home. And by the time fall clothes and wardrobe changes get here, you'll be ready for them. Put on the swimsuit which shows you to your worst advantage. Then take a good look at yourself in a full-length mirror. If you're bedazzled by your own reflection, read no further.

But if you don't like what you see, jot down your vital statistics. That means weight and these important measurements—bust, waistline, abdomen, hips, derriere, upper and lower thigh. Make a note of where you protrude and shouldn't. Then compare these measurements with the ones you'll find in my convenient ideal-measurement calculator. The calculator is part of my handy booklet, "Do You Measure Up?" A copy's yours for 10c and a stamped, return envelope sent to me, John Robert Powers, c/o this newspaper.

Now put the swimsuit away for at least a month and go to work on your self-improvement program. This means exercise, daily exercise, starting with ten minutes a day and working up to a total of 30 minutes a day.

And while you're at it, let's not forget America's currently favorite pastime—calorie-counting.

Tomorrow: Models are Special.

PTA Council Backs Guards

The Allegany County Council of Parents and Teachers has protested to the Mayor and Council of Cumberland in regard to the scheduled removal of crossing guards from local streets.

Mrs. Virginia Buckalew, president, states in a letter to city council that it must realize the wonderful job these women have done in safeguarding the lives of children.

If it is necessary to retrench, she declared, certainly a better way can be found than exposing children to the hazards of heavy traffic.

"We are aware that budgets have to balance, but the welfare of our children far outweighs the cost of these 'guardian angels,'" Mrs. Buckalew stated.

She concluded by urging the council to reconsider the action in order to maintain the excellent safety record compiled by the guards.

The council has received a number of protests against the removal of the crossing guards and also the elimination of the policewoman. There have been indications that at least six or more of the guards will be retained.

The American flag is flown over the White House daily from sunrise to sunset, whether the President is in residence or out of town and regardless of the weather.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

AXYDLBAAXR
is LONG FELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

REDS SPOT PENGUINS

MOSCOW (UPI)—A colony of several thousand Emperor Penguins has been discovered by Russian biologists in the Antarctic. The Soviet news agency Tass reported Sunday. Only a few groups of the giant-sized penguins had been known to exist before biologists at the Mirny Observatory in the Antarctic spotted the colony which was located near the western shelf glacier, about 200 miles from Mirny.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q 1—Partner opens with one club.
AK10 4 2 QJ9 9 3 J4 A10 7 3
What is your response?
A—You have just enough for one bid and should make an effort to reach the best contract. This should be done by responding with one heart. If you respond with one spade, partner may find it awkward to show a four card heart suit if he has a mediocre hand. But if you choose to bid one heart, partner may raise your bid if he has hearts and may show a four card spade suit at the level of one if he happens to hold it.

Q 2—As South you hold:
AK 6 J 10 5 A3 A4 J 9 6 4 2
The bidding has proceeded:
North South
1 heart Pass 1 club Pass
2 no trump Pass
What do you bid now?
A—Since partner has previously passed, his response is not forcing, nevertheless you should proceed to three no trump. You have only 12 points and partner probably has about 12 or 13, which brings the total to somewhat less than the required 26 points for a no trump game. A six card suit nine tricks can usually be developed with less than the normal high card content.

Q 3—As South you hold:
AK 10 6 3 A4 Q 7 6 4 A9 6
The bidding has proceeded:
South North
1 heart Pass 1 spade Pass
2 diamonds Pass 3 hearts Pass
What do you bid now?
A—You cannot safely go the whole way yourself because partner, since he never increased the contract, has shown no special strength. You should test him out with a bid of three hearts. If his hand is suitable he will go on. If not, you won't be missing game.

Q 4—As South you hold:
AK 9 5 3 2 Q 6 4 7 A 10 K 10
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass 3 diamonds Double Pass
What do you bid now?
A—Four spades. This is a tie hand opposite a double of three diamonds, mere bid of three spades would be a forced response and would almost surely be passed by partner, who would have no way of telling that you had any values.

Q 5—Both vulnerable and as South you hold:
AK 10 6 3 A4 Q 7 6 4 A9 6
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass 3 diamonds Double Pass
What do you bid now?
A—Four spades. This is a tie hand opposite a double of three diamonds, mere bid of three spades would be a forced response and would almost surely be passed by partner, who would have no way of telling that you had any values.

In Memoriam

In memory of Eugene C. Jeffries who passed away one year ago today. A loving one from us is gone. A voice we loved is still. A place is vacant in our home, which never can be filled. God in His wisdom has recalled His place is doomed forever. Although his body is at rest, His soul is safe in heaven. Sadly missed by his mother, Sisters and Brothers.

In loving memory of our dear mother, Annie Catherine Kniemier, who passed away, August 25, 1956. God Grant You Eternal Rest. And Peaceful Sleep. Loving daughters and son, Susan M. Bedea, Washington, D. C. Minnie Cessa, Cumberland. Norman Kniemier, Cumberland.

In Memoriam

In memory of Eugene C. Jeffries who passed away one year ago today. A loving one from us is gone. A voice we loved is still away. A place is vacant in our home, which never can be filled. God in His wisdom has recalled this place is doomed forever. Although his body is at rest, his soul is safe in heaven. Sadly missed by his mother, Sisters and Brothers.

In loving memory of our dear mother, Annie Catherine Krieger, who passed away, August 25, 1956. God Grant You Eternal Rest And Peaceful Sleep. Loving daughters and son Susan M. Bede, Washington, D. C. Minnie Cessa, Cumberland. Norman Krieger, Cumberland.

1-Announcements

VACATIONERS, have the home town news follow you while you are away from home. You can have the Cumberland News or Evening Times mailed any where in the States for 7c per copy. Sunday Times for 15c per copy. Before you take your trip Phone the Times-News Circulation Department, PA 2-4600 to order your paper.

TERRIFIC FOR TRAFFIC, Glaxo coated asphalt tile can really take the wear. Ends waxing. Rosenbaum's.

REMEMBER your loved ones with an In Memoriam. The rate is a little lower than the regular want ad rates. $c per line, minimum 10 lines. About the Sunday Times on Sunday six words of normal size will fit on one line. The rate covers morning and evening issues on weekdays or

CRENSHAW —

Appropriations To Get Final Action Today

Some Amendments Are Expected

The Mayor and Council today will take final action on an appropriations ordinance for the fiscal year which began July 1.

The ordinance passed its first reading last Monday on a 3-2 vote as a result of the crossing guard issue.

From all indications, the ordinance will be amended on its second reading to provide funds for part or all of the 11-woman patrol.

Shortly after the regular session ended last Monday, the Mayor and Council held another meeting in an attempt to find funds for the school crossing unit.

Must Switch Funds

Since the levy had already been approved, there was no question of finding "extra" money, and the search boiled down to tapping other appropriations considered of a less urgent nature.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said there was agreement that funds would be secured for at least six guards by taking $1,500 from the Municipal Airport budget and abolishing the $3,000 Mosquito Control appropriation.

Mayor Keech added that the search for the rest of the money was to continue.

Actually, city officials will have to find another $1,000, as about that amount has been spent for mosquito control since July 1.

Some Are "Musts"

Where the money will come from is anybody's guess, but a number of appropriations are mandatory and cannot be reduced.

Examples are the $92,200 set aside for employees pensions, $2,500 toward the cost of the Allegheny County Juvenile Court, $15,500 for police pension and $10,500 for Social Security.

Several other appropriations are governed by contracts and cannot be cut to any extent. These include $72,000 for garbage collections and $39,000 for street lighting. The former was cut $3,000 from last year, and $1,000 has been shaved off the light fund.

The 1958-59 levy totals $1,905,120 and is about $100,000 less than last year's.

Police Boys Attend Camp

Some 50 members of the Cumberland Police Boys Club enjoyed a lot of outdoor fun during the past two weeks when they attended Camp Royal in the vicinity of Belle Grove off U. S. Route 40.

Officer John Daum of the local police department, who was in charge of arrangements, said the project cost about $500. During each of the past two weeks, 25 members attended the camp, he said.

Cooking chores were in charge of Rev. Willard White, owner of the campsite, who conducted services each evening. The boys bunked in three cottages on the camp grounds and each day enjoyed swimming, badminton, volleyball and other games, as well as hikes.

Camp directors were John Morrissey of the Fire Department and James Morris of the Police Department.

Guard Rests After Governors' Parade

INDIANTOWN GAP, Pa. (AP)—Some 8,000 members of the 29th National Guard Infantry Division were resting Sunday after a formal parade Saturday for the governors of Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

The civilian soldiers put on the formal program to mark the midway point in their annual two-week summer training encampment at this huge military installation 20 miles from Harrisburg.

The governors honored were Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland; Cecil Underwood of West Virginia, and J. Lindsay Almond of Virginia.

The national guardsmen are from the three states.

St. Paul's Church Moves Upward

The new edifice of St. Paul's Lutheran Church at the intersection of Washington and Smallwood streets is beginning to take shape as this picture shows. The steel, most of which was installed last week, outlines the main portion of the church. The steel spire at the left is where the steeple will stand when the new structure is completed. The work, started in the early spring, is being done by the George F. Hazelwood Construction Company.

Legislators Plan Hearings September 2, 3

A series of meetings will be held September 2 and 3 in Baltimore by the Legislative Council, between sessions screening body of the General Assembly.

The Budget and Finance Committee will hold five hearings September 2, beginning at 2 p. m. with a session on scholarships, 3:30 p. m. on budget procedures and layout, 4 p. m. on welfare payments, 7:30 p. m. on tax exemptions on real estate of hospitals and at 8 p. m. on sick leave and salaries of State Roads Commission employees.

The Judiciary Committee that day will hold hearings at 2 p. m. on conditional contracts of sale and fees for clerks of court, 3:30 p. m., urban renewal and regulation of truck traffic in municipalities, 3:30 p. m., posting of collateral by non-residents in traffic cases, 4 p. m. emergency admission to mental hospitals and 7:30 p. m. Water Pollution Control Commission and pollution of tidal waters.

The full Legislative Council will hold hearings on September 3 at 10 a. m. on a research report on condemnation and at 10:45 a. m. on a research report on the grand jury system.

The sessions will close with a business session at 11:30 a. m. Del. George R. Hughes Jr., House minority leader, will represent Allegheny County at the sessions.

Crew Is Cleaning 48-Inch Sewer

A city sewer crew has been working in the vicinity of the C & O Canal, cleaning a 48-inch interceptor sewer which is about half full of silt.

Three men are assigned to the detail. The silt is being removed by buckets drawn by a motor-operated winch.

Optimists Planning Lumber Mill Tour

Members of the Optimist Club of Bedford Road are going to take a trip to a lumber mill tomorrow.

John Cheney, vice president of the Valley Lumber Company, will speak to the Optimists and then take them on a tour of the mill which was the former Light Lumber Company.

West Virginia May Get 56th County In 'Secession'

WHITESVILLE, W. Va. (UPI)—The outcome of the Aug. 5 primary election has brought talk in this area of a 56th West Virginia county.

Proponents have advocated the formation of the new county from Sherman District in Boone County and Marsh Fork and Clear Fork Districts neighboring Raleigh County.

Residents in two of the three districts complained that they have had no one elected to major county offices for many years. The lone exception was in Marsh Fork where Carl Jarrell had served as a member of the Raleigh County school board.

It was the defeat of Jarrell—and others—that brought the pot to a boil following the primary and

More Rain Slated For Cumberland And Area Today

A soaking rain fell in Cumberland yesterday, and more is forecast for today.

The Weather Bureau said today will be warm with scattered showers ending in the west this morning, and in the east portion of the state this afternoon. Temperatures of 75 to 82 degrees are forecast for Western Maryland.

The unofficial high yesterday was 72 degrees. Heavy fog was reported east and west of Cumberland, adding to the driving hazard created by wet pavements.

Yesterday's rainfall brought a temporary end to several days of sunny weather enjoyed by area residents last week.

Employment Office To Close Labor Day

All offices of the Maryland Department of Employment Security will be closed on Labor Day, Monday, September 1.

Claimants for unemployment insurance who would normally receive their benefit checks Monday will receive them this Friday instead, as will those claimants regularly scheduled for Friday.

Robert B. Kimble, D.E.S. executive director, said there undoubtedly would be some delay in the payment of checks Friday, but added that all Department employees doing work which is in any way deferrable will be shifted to help with the claims-taking and paying process.

Mrs. Kimble also appealed to the claimants involved not to report either early or late, but at the reporting hours regularly assigned them, so as to reduce waiting time to a minimum.

Health Department Schedules Clinics

The Allegheny County Health Department has scheduled child health clinics tomorrow at 9 a. m. in Cresaptown and Thursday at 9:30 a. m. in Frostburg.

Also scheduled this week are a pediatric consultation clinic today, a multi-purpose clinic Wednesday and a chest clinic, all from 9 a. m. to noon in City Hall.

Union Will Meet

Laborers Local 616, AFL-CIO, will meet Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the Allegheny Labor Temple.

Many Women Share Fair Premium Funds

Premium money distributed Saturday morning at the close of the 41st annual Cumberland Fair went to hundreds of persons in the Tri-State area.

For instance, in the household clothing department, 39 women shared the premium money. Their receipts ranged from a high of $16.75 to a low of 75 cents.

The leading premium money winner for household clothing was Mrs. Forrest Snider, 638 Hill Top Drive, who collected ten ribbons adding up to $16.75 in premium money.

Others among the top five in household clothing were Mrs. Charles Wright, RFD 1, $9.75; Mrs. Guy Bradour, 1414 Bedford Street, $9.25; Mrs. Orville Peterbrink, RFD 1, $8, and Mrs. Anna Zembower, RFD 3, Bedford, Pa., $7.75.

In the department listed as household articles, 52 women shared the premium money. Mrs. Upton McFarland of Frostburg was the top winner in this competition with four prizes adding up to $10.50.

Next after Mrs. McFarland were Mrs. Charles Wright, RFD 1, $8.50; Mrs. William A. Judy, Cresaptown, $7.50; Mrs. William Merrbaugh, Lonaconing, $7, and Mrs. Florence Wolfe, RFD 1, $6.50.

Interstate Route Sought

WELCH, W. Va. (UPI)—The Welch Chamber of Commerce has urged the State Road Commission to support construction of Interstate 77 on the general route now followed by U. S. 21.

The highway will enter West Virginia at Williamstown, Wood County and continue to the Virginia border. It may also include the West Virginia Turnpike between Charleston and Princeton.

A spokesman said Saturday action favoring the so-called western route through Mercer County, W. Va., and Bland, Wythe and Grayson Counties in Virginia was taken at a special meeting of the chamber's board of directors.

The board passed a resolution which stated that it would be to the best interests of the town of Welch and McDowell County to have Interstate 77 built as close to the county as possible.

Septic Tanks Keep Sanitarians Busy

Sanitarians of the Allegheny County Health Department supervised the installation of 80 septic tanks during June.

A report of the month's activities showed that 73 milk licenses were issued, three court cases held to enforce health regulations and two dumps eliminated.

The sanitarians made 455 field trips during June. They included 107 trips on sewage problems, 51 visits to food establishments, 82 trips to dairy farms.

Seventeen percolation tests were made to see how well soil would absorb moisture from septic tanks. Results of the tests determined the size of drainage fields needed.

The sanitarians collected 159 water and 137 milk samples for analysis.

Tawes To Seek 'Victory Of Vindication'

Beall, D'Alesandro Clash Again

By The Associated Press

J. Millard Tawes, Democratic candidate for governor, sounded the call Sunday for a "victory of vindication" for his party in the November balloting.

Tawes told a gathering of the United Democratic Women's Clubs of Maryland in a prepared speech at Ocean City. "Our goal is a victory of such tremendous dimensions that it will repudiate, in unmistakable manner, the 10 years of Republican domination in the high offices of this state."

He added that the Democrats' objective will be to prove once and for all that Maryland is a Democratic state and intends to remain one for many years to come.

Criticizes Commercials

Tawes, who is state comptroller, also criticized what he termed the Republican reluctance to use their party label in paid advertising.

"The Republicans' spot radio announcements 'have been disguised to appear as regular news broadcasts,'" said Tawes.

"Here again is another example of Republican reluctance to speak out boldly and forthrightly to the people of Maryland."

Meanwhile, the two Senate candidates, GOP incumbent J. Glenn Beall and the Democratic Baltimore mayor, Thomas D'Alesandro, clashed again on the issue of Beall's attitude toward Social Security bills.

Criticizes Vote

D'Alesandro said in a weekend luncheon before the United Democratic Women that Beall showed callousness in not voting for a measure to boost benefits by 10 per cent.

In favoring a 7 per cent increase instead, said D'Alesandro, Beall "voted to deprive the people of Maryland of approximately three million dollars annually."

Beall retorted in a news letter from Washington. He said that "it may come as a rude shock to those dreamers who do not understand government financing . . . that every penny paid out by the government must come from the pocket of the taxpayer."

The new Social Security bill okayed by the Senate last week-end provides for a 7 per cent increase in benefits. These are to be paid for through a boost in the payroll tax, from 2 1/4 to 2 1/2 per cent.

'Champion Spender'

A Beall spokesman in Baltimore also joined in answering D'Alesandro. Hyman Pressman, attorney who heads the so-called "Truth Squad for Beall," called the Baltimore mayor a champion spender.

"His spending hand never worries about what his taxing hand is doing," said Pressman in a statement. "He is also a dreamer. He is not an ordinary dreamer, for when he dreams, 950,000 people in Baltimore City have a nightmare."

Pressman termed D'Alesandro a Harry F. Byrd in reverse. Meanwhile, John R. Foley, Democratic candidate for Congress in the 6th District, announced he would open his campaign headquarters at Wheaton Tuesday evening.

He listed the following organizing committee members: Edward J. Ryan, Allegheny; Edward Storm, Frederick; Lewis C. Hutson, Garrett; Mrs. Laverne Holt, Montgomery; and James Byron, Washington.

Coalmen, UMW To Begin Talks

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Negotiations will begin here Monday affecting some 1,500 river and terminal employees of four major coal producing and transporting firms in West Virginia.

A two-year contract for the workers expires Sept. 30 and company officials and representatives of the United Mine Workers union will discuss terms for a new pact.

Clarence H. Wright of Charleston, District 50 director for the UMW, will head the union delegation. The firms are Island Creek Coal Co., Amherst Coal Co., Ohio River Co., and J. F. Shearer & Sons.

Four Hurt In Crash At Shaft

Three persons were hospitalized yesterday after a two-car collision on Maryland Route 36 at Shaft.

Admitted to Miners Hospital in Frostburg were:

Robert F. Bisignano, 17, of 55 Ormond Street, Frostburg, driver of one of the cars, who sustained a laceration of his right eye, contusions of the scalp, and shock.

Ruby Leona Smith, 16, of Beryl, W. Va., who suffered a fractured left ankle and laceration of her scalp.

Robert R. Kitzmiller, 20, of 75 Main Street, Westernport, who sustained a laceration of his forehead.

All three are reported in satisfactory condition.

Treated at Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser was Thurman G. Kitzmiller, 29, of Box 128, Barton, who sustained a laceration of his left eye and right chin.

State Police, who investigated the accident at 1:10 p. m., said Bisignano was traveling south on Route 36 at an apparent high rate of speed.

His car spun around on the wet pavement and the right side of the car rammed into the car driven north by Kitzmiller.

The Bisignano auto careened to the west side of the highway and the other car went off the east side of the highway in an effort to avoid the accident.

Trooper Bruce C. Diehl said Robert Kitzmiller and Ruby Smith were in the Kitzmiller car.

Lumber Firm Buys Property In Lonaconing

Property formerly owned by the Tach-Fast Manufacturing Company in Lonaconing was sold Saturday morning at public auction to representatives of the Marshall Lumber Company, one of the well-established businesses in that community.

The sale of one and one-third acres just west of State Route 36 improved by a two-story frame building, 30 by 110 feet in size was ordered by the Federal District Court in a bankruptcy proceeding.

It was understood last night that the Marshall Lumber Company will use the building, formerly called the Coney Stable, for storage purposes for the time being. Although there are no immediate plans for moving, it may be that the building will be remodeled to serve as the headquarters for the lumber company, now situated on West Main Street.

Tach-Fast had purchased the property several years ago from the Georges Creek Coal Company for possible future expansion, but had used it only for storage.

SRC Payments High In July

The State Roads Commission has announced that the contract estimate payments during the month of July, in the amount of $4,802,304.92, was the largest for that month in the history of the State Roads Commission. This is significant in view of July being the wettest July in Maryland since weather records have been kept.

If the unprecedented inclement weather had not slowed paving operations to almost a standstill, the amount of payments would have exceeded those for September, October and November of 1957 — $5,230,325.99, $4,831,552.08 and $5,549,470.96, respectively, the highest payments made in State Roads Commission history.

Five Are Hurt In Accidents On Route 36

Ranch Wagon Rams Bridge Abutment

Five persons were injured in two separate auto accidents on Maryland State Route 36 along George's Creek yesterday.

About 5:40 p. m. yesterday four persons were hurt when the ranch wagon in which they were riding rammed into the abutment of a bridge which spans Georges Creek at the east end of Lonaconing.

Admitted to Miners Hospital at Frostburg were William K. Grady, 29, of Piedmont, driver of the car; Okey W. Halbritter, 35, of Westernport, owner of the vehicle; Doris Alice Michael, 17, of Midland, and Betty Jose, 29, of Mill Run near Barton.

Cars Demolished

About 12:15 a. m. a Westernport man was injured in a two-car collision at Gilmore. Both cars were a total loss.

Police said Charles M. Carpenter, 38, suffered a fractured left hand and was treated at Sacred Heart Hospital. He is to return today for X-rays. Uninjured in the crash, police said, was James R. Bradley, 22, of Barton.

Bradley, according to police, apparently fell asleep at the wheel while traveling north on the highway, crossed the road into the path of the Carpenter car, rammed it and continued on down the highway and over an embankment.

No charges have been filed, according to Trooper Bruce Diehl, who investigated both accidents.

Car Hits Abutment

In the other crash, the car driven by Grady was traveling south on Route 36, ran off to the right of the road and crashed into the abutment. The car was demolished.

Grady suffered a laceration of his lip, possible fractured ribs, and bruise burns. Halbritter suffered possible neck and chest injuries and a scalp wound; Miss Michael, lacerations of her face and body, and bruise burns.

Betty Jose, who was admitted to the hospital in a state of shock, sustained a fractured left arm, possible fractured ribs, and bruise burns of the arm and body. She is reported in "fair" condition, while the others are reported "satisfactory."

No charges have been filed, police said. The accidents occurred within about four miles of each other.

Man Attempts To Enter Home

A breaking and entering attempt and a larceny case were reported to city police over the weekend.

G. C. Core, 17 South Waverly Terrace, told police that a man attempted to enter his bedroom but was scared away by him and his wife.

The person removed a window screen from the bedroom. A description of the man was given to police.

Lewis B. Young, who operates an antique shop at 439 North Centre Street, said that about 2:30 p. m. Saturday someone took a $5 bill from a table at his home.

Two boys were suspected, police said.

Three Area Women Named To Teaching Positions

The appointment of three more graduates of Frostburg State Teachers College to elementary school teaching positions in Allegheny County was announced over the weekend by Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

Mrs. Mary Jane McDonald Stanley of Piedmont, formerly of LaVale, a former teacher, will teach at Barton Elementary School when the new term opens Thursday, September 4.

A 1949 graduate of the former Central High School in Lonaconing, Mrs. Stanley was graduated from Frostburg State Teachers College in 1953. She taught from 1953 until 1956 at John Humbird School. Then she took some graduate work at Pennsylvania State University, moved to Panama with her husband and then to Piedmont when he accepted employment with West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

Mrs. Elinor Sines Wigfield, 733 Hill Top Drive has been named to a teaching position at Johnson Heights School near where she lives. She was graduated from the former Oakland High School in 1952 and Frostburg State Teachers College in 1956. The past two years she has been teaching in

Some Amendments Are Expected

The Mayor and Council today will take final action on an appropriations ordinance for the fiscal year which began July 1.

The ordinance passed its first reading last Monday on a 3-2 vote as a result of the crossing guard issue.

From all indications, the ordinance will be amended on its second reading to provide funds for part or all of the 11-woman patrol.

Shortly after the regular session ended last Monday, the Mayor and Council held another meeting in an attempt to find funds for the school crossing unit.

Must Switch Funds

Since the levy had already been approved, there was no question of finding "extra" money, and the search boiled down to tapping other appropriations considered of a less urgent nature.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said there was agreement that funds would be secured for at least six guards by taking $1,500 from the Municipal Airport budget and abolishing the $3,000 Mosquito Control appropriation.

Mayor Keech added that the search for the rest of the money was to continue.

Actually, city officials will have to find another $1,000, as about that amount has been spent for mosquito control since July 1.

Some Are "Musts"

Where the money will come from is anybody's guess, but a number of appropriations are mandatory and cannot be reduced.

Examples are the $92,200 set aside for employees pensions, $2,500 toward the cost of the Allegheny County Juvenile Court, $15,500 for police pension and $10,500 for Social Security.

Several other appropriations are governed by contracts and cannot be cut to any extent. These include $72,000 for garbage collections and $39,000 for street lighting. The former was cut $3,000 from last year, and the latter has been shaved off the light fund.

The 1958-59 levy totals $1,905,120 and is about $100,000 less than last year's.

Police Boys Attend Camp

Some 50 members of the Cumberland Police Boys Club enjoyed a lot of outdoor fun during the past two weeks when they attended Camp Royal in the vicinity of Belle Grove off U. S. Route 40.

Officer John Daum of the local police department, who was in charge of arrangements, said the project cost about $500. During each of the past two weeks, 25 members attended the camp, he said.

Cooking chores were in charge of Rev. Willard White, owner of the campsite, who conducted services each evening. The boys bunked in three cottages on the camp grounds and each day enjoyed swimming, badminton, volleyball and other games, as well as hikes.

Camp directors were John Morrissey of the Fire Department and James Morris of the Police Department.

Guard Rests After Governors' Parade

INDIANTOWN GAP, Pa. (AP) —Some 8,000 members of the 29th National Guard Infantry Division were resting Sunday after a formal parade Saturday for the governors of Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

The civilian soldiers put on the formal program to mark the mid-way point in their annual two-week summer training encampment at this huge military installation 20 miles from Harrisburg.

The governors honored were Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland; Cecil Underwood of West Virginia, and J. Lindsay Almond of Virginia.

The national guardsmen are from the three states.

Crew Is Cleaning 48-Inch Sewer

A city sewer crew has been working in the vicinity of the C & O Canal, cleaning a 48-inch interceptor sewer which is about half full of silt.

Three men are assigned to the detail. The silt is being removed by buckets drawn by a motor-operated winch.

Optimists Planning Lumber Mill Tour

Members of the Optimist Club of Bedford Road are going to take a trip to a lumber mill tomorrow.

John Cheney, vice president of the Valley Lumber Company, will speak to the Optimists and take them on a tour of the mill which was the former Light Lumber Company.

West Virginia May Get 56th County In 'Secession'

WHITESVILLE, W. Va. (UPI) —The outcome of the Aug. 5 primary election has brought talk in this area of a 56th West Virginia county.

Proponents have advocated the formation of the new county from Sherman District in Boone County and Marsh Fork and Clear Fork Districts neighboring Raleigh County.

Residents in two of the three districts complained that they have had no one elected to major county offices for many years. The lone exception was in Marsh Fork where Carl Jarrell had served as a member of the Raleigh County school board.

It was the defeat of Jarrell—and others—that brought the pot to boil following the primary and

More Rain Slated For Cumberland And Area Today

A soaking rain fell in Cumberland yesterday, and more is forecast for today.

The Weather Bureau said today will be warm with scattered showers ending in the west this morning, and in the east portion of the state this afternoon. Temperatures of 75 to 82 degrees are forecast for Western Maryland.

The unofficial high yesterday was 72 degrees. Heavy fog was reported east and west of Cumberland, adding to the driving hazard created by wet pavements.

Yesterday's rainfall brought a temporary end to several days of sunny weather enjoyed by area residents last week.

Employment Office To Close Labor Day

All offices of the Maryland Department of Employment Security will be closed on Labor Day, Monday, September 1.

Claims for unemployment insurance who would normally receive their benefit checks Monday will receive them this Friday instead, as will those claimants regularly scheduled for Friday.

Robert B. Kimble, D.E.S. executive director, said there undoubtedly would be some delay in the payment of checks Friday, but added that all Department employees doing work which is in any way deferrable will be shifted to help with the claims-taking and paying process.

Mrs. Kimble also appealed to the claimants involved not to report either early or late, but at the reporting hours regularly assigned them, so as to reduce waiting time to a minimum.

Health Department Schedules Clinics

The Allegheny County Health Department has scheduled child health clinics tomorrow at 9 a. m. in Cresaptown and Thursday at 9:30 a. m. in Frostburg.

Also scheduled this week are a pediatric consultation clinic today, a multi-purpose clinic Wednesday and a chest clinic, all from 9 a. m. to noon in City Hall.

Union Local Meet

Laborers Local 616, AFL-CIO, will meet Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the Allegheny Labor Temple.

Septic Tanks Keep Sanitarians Busy

Sanitarians of the Allegheny County Health Department supervised the installation of 80 septic tanks during June.

A report of the month's activities showed that 73 milk licenses were issued, three court cases held to enforce health regulations and two dumps eliminated.

The sanitarians made 455 field trips during June. They included 107 trips on sewage problems, 51 visits to food establishments, 82 trips to dairy farms.

Seventeen percolation tests were made to see how well soil would absorb moisture from septic tanks. Results of the tests determine the size of drainage fields needed.

The sanitarians collected 159 water and 137 milk samples for analysis.

Rotarians, Lions Will Hear Israeli Diplomat Speak

Gideon Tadmor, second secretary of the Embassy of Israel at Washington, will have two speaking engagements before local service clubs this week.

Tomorrow he will speak at the weekly dinner meeting of the Rotary Club at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

On Wednesday at 12:15 p. m. he will speak at the dinner meeting of the Lions Club at the YMCA. Mr. Tadmor will speak on the foreign policy of Israel and on various aspects of life in the Middle East.

Certified Plants Now Available

Certified black raspberry plants may now be obtained in Allegheny County, according to County Agent Joseph M. Steger.

There has been considerable interest on the part of Maryland growers in a source of certified black raspberry plants. To be certified it is necessary that control measures have been taken to grow planting stock free from virus and other diseases.

Beginning last year, Dr. L. O. Weaver and Dr. I. C. Haut of the University of Maryland have examined and rogued black raspberry plantings near Cumberland in an effort to develop a source of virus-free raspberry plants.

Logan, Cumberland and Bristol varieties may be obtained from Theodore Stegmaier, Christie Road; Floyd Buser or Clark Hamilton, both of whom farm on Warrior Mountain.

Planting certified black raspberry plants and providing isolation from older plantings, especially red varieties, are two important control measures to avoid early, serious virus infection.

Rotary Official Will Visit Here

District Governor Howard A. Lindaman will make his annual visit to the Cumberland Rotary Club at its meeting on Tuesday, September 9.

The annual Club Assembly will be held that evening at 6:30 p. m. at Ali Ghan Country Club. All officers, directors and committee chairmen are expected to attend.

Tawes To Seek 'Victory Of Vindication'

Beall, D'Alesandro Clash Again

By The Associated Press

J. Millard Tawes, Democratic candidate for governor, sounded the call Sunday for a "victory of vindication" for his party in the November balloting.

Tawes told a gathering of the United Democratic Women's Clubs of Maryland in a prepared speech at Ocean City. "Our goal is a victory of such tremendous dimensions that it will repudiate, in unmistakable manner, the 10 years of Republican domination in the high offices of this state."

He added that the Democrats' objective will be to prove once and for all that Maryland is a Democratic state and intends to remain one for many years to come.

Criticizes Commercial

Tawes, who is state comptroller, also criticized what he termed the Republican reluctance to use their party label in paid advertising.

The Republicans' spot radio announcements "have been disguised to appear as regular news broadcasts," said Tawes.

"Here again is another example of Republican reluctance to speak out boldly and forthrightly to the people of Maryland."

Meanwhile, the two Senate candidates, GOP incumbent J. Glenn Beall and the Democratic Baltimore mayor, Thomas D'Alesandro, clashed again on the issue of Beall's attitude toward Social Security bills.

Criticizes Vote

D'Alesandro said in a weekend luncheon before the United Democratic Women that Beall showed callousness in not voting for a measure to boost benefits by 10 per cent.

In favoring a 7 per cent increase instead, said D'Alesandro, Beall "voted to deprive the people of Maryland of approximately three million dollars annually."

Beall retorted in a news letter from Washington. He said that "it may come as a rude shock to those dreamers who do not understand government financing . . . that every penny paid out by the government must come from the pocket of the taxpayer."

The new Social Security bill okayed by the Senate last week-end provides for a 7 per cent increase in benefits. These are to be paid for through a boost in the payroll tax, from 2 1/4 to 2 1/2 per cent.

"Champion Spender"

A Beall spokesman in Baltimore also joined in answering D'Alesandro. Hyman Pressman, attorney who heads the so-called "Truth Squad for Beall," called the Baltimore mayor a champion spender.

"His spending hand never worries about what his taxing hand is doing," said Pressman in a statement. "He is also a dreamer, for when he dreams, 950,000 people in Baltimore City have a nightmare."

Pressman termed D'Alesandro a Harry F. Byrd in reverse.

Meanwhile, John R. Foley, Democratic candidate for Congress in the 6th District, announced he would open his campaign headquarters at Wheaton Tuesday evening.

He listed the following organizing committee members: Edward J. Ryan, Allegheny; Edward Storm, Frederick; Lewis C. Hutson, Garrett; Mrs. Laverne Holt, Montgomery; and James Byron, Washington.

Four Hurt In Crash At Shaft

Three persons were hospitalized yesterday after a two-car collision on Maryland Route 36 at Shaft.

Admitted to Miners Hospital in Frostburg were:

Robert F. Bisignano, 17, of 55 Ormond Street, Frostburg, driver of one of the cars, who sustained a laceration of his right eye, contusions of the scalp, and shock.

Ruby Leona Smith, 16, of Beryl, W. Va., who suffered a fractured left ankle and laceration of her scalp.

Robert R. Kitzmiller, 20, of 75 Main Street, Westernport, who sustained a laceration of his forehead.

All three are reported in satisfactory condition.

Treated at Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser was Thurman G. Kitzmiller, 29, of Box 128, Barton, who sustained a laceration of his left eye and right chin.

State Police, who investigated the accident at 1:10 p. m., said Bisignano was traveling south on Route 36 at an apparent high rate of speed.

His car spun around on the wet pavement and the right side of the car rammed into the car driven north by Kitzmiller.

The Bisignano auto careened to the west side of the highway and the other car went off the east side of the highway in an effort to avoid the accident.

Trooper Bruce C. Diehl said Robert Kitzmiller and Ruby Smith were in the Kitzmiller car.
